Health Board, Credit Bills Face Ohio Assembly Tonight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill that would authorize Common Pleas courts to grant injunctions at a board of health's request comes up for a vote in the Ohio House tonight.

The bill is sponsored by Rep. Rodney Hughes, R-8 Bellefontaine.

The Legislative Service Commission has analyzed the bill and says it will clarify the authority of health officials to petition for injunctive relief.

The commission said health boards want to use injunctions in matters where they decide a criminal charge is too severe.

It is one of four bills scheduled for a vote in the House. Five bills are up for floor action in the Senate.

The House is expected to receive a bipartisan resolution asking for a two-year study of Ohio's consumer credit laws.

The bills sponsors are Reps. Robert E. Levitt, R-91 Canton; Keith McNamara, R-64 Columbus and John McDonald, D-19 Newark.

Krist Kidnap Trial Starts

Buried Heiress, FBI Charges

DECATUR, Ga. (AP) — Burly, bearded Gary Steven Krist goes on trial today on a charge of kidnapping Florida heiress Barbara Jane Mackle.

Krist, 24, a convicted car thief who escaped a California prison, is charged with Ruth Eismann-Schier, 26, Honduras-born biologist, in the Dec. 17 abduction of the Emory University coed. Miss Schier is to go on trial June 16.

The courthouse is not far from the motel where the 20-year-old student was taken from a sickbed, then buried alive in a plywood crypt under 18 inches of clay while a $500,000 ransom was negotiated with her father.

Krist has spent the last three weeks in a hospital undergoing psychiatric examination. He was removed from the DeKalb County jail April 22 after collapsing from a 27-day hunger strike.

Miss Mackle spent 83 hours buried below the ground in a coffin-like box equipped with air pipes, a fan, a battery-powered light and a small quantity of food and water.

Her father, Robert F. Mackle, a Coral Gables, Fla., land developer paid the ransom for information that led FBI agents to her prison.

27 Twisters Touch Down Across U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers soaked wide sectors of the nation today after a weekend in which 27 tornadoes touched down on sites across the country.

The latest twisters struck South Carolina Sunday night.

One flattened a supermarket and damaged several houses in Cowpens, site of an American upset victory in the Revolutionary War. The other felled some trees near Greenville. No injuries were reported.

The belt of scattered showers stretched from lower Michigan to Maine down to Florida and Mississippi. Almost two inches fell in Cleveland and 1½ inches doused Birmingham.

Another line of showers reached from Nebraska and the Dakotas to the Pacific Northwest.

Clear skies stretched from the upper Mississippi Valley to the Southern Plains and on across the Southwest.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 54 at Hancock, Mich., to 86 at Needles, Calif.

The uniform code is aimed at modernizing and simplifying laws on installment plans, consumer credit and small loans.

The sponsors say passage of the bill would mean a major overhaul of current laws.

Wednesday morning the Senate will hear a bill to require candidates for sheriff to be between 25 and 60 years old, and have a high school education and three years of law enforcement experience.

The first hearing on a bill to require licensing and inspection of Ohio slaughterhouses will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. by the Senate Agriculture and State Agencies Committee.

The bill was introduced last week by Sen. Tennyson Guver, R-2 Findlay, committee chairman.

B52 Bombers Blast Viet Reds On Laos Frontier

SAIGON (AP) — Six U.S. B52 bombers blasted North Vietnamese troops, bunkers and gun positions today near a mountain that American paratroopers have been trying to take for more than a week.

The powerful Strategic Air Command bombers entered the battle for Dong Ap Bia mountain, near the Laotian frontier, after American paratroopers were beaten back Sunday for the 10th time in nine days. Twelve Americans were killed and 79 wounded in the assault Sunday.

U.S. military spokesmen claim the paratroopers have killed 325 North Vietnamese soldiers on the 3,000-foot mountain overlooking the A Shau Valley. U.S. losses so far total 37 killed and 209 wounded.

America's biggest bombers dropped 180 tons of bombs about 3½ miles northwest of Dong Ap Bia, an attempt apparently to cut off reinforcements for the North Vietnamese still holding the mountain top.

Meanwhile, heavy artillery barrages pounded the mountain and the paratroopers' battalion commander vowed: "There are no two ways about it, we are going to drive them out."

The U.S. Command said 125 North Vietnamese soldiers were killed in the 14-hour fight Sunday. But Associated Press correspondent Jay Sharbut reported from the mountain that most of the enemy losses were estimated by air observers after massive American napalm, bomb and artillery strikes.

The heavy jungle on the mountain top has been blasted almost bare, but an estimated 800 North Vietnamese were still holding out in deep bunkers.

One battalion of the 101st Airborne Division has made it to the top of the mountain three times but has been driven off each time by a stream of rocket grenades and machinegun fire.

Elsewhere in Vietnam: About 1,000 North Vietnamese attacked a U.S. artillery base 40 miles northeast of Saigon Sunday, hurling dynamite charges at gun batteries. Fourteen American soldiers were killed and 39 wounded; U.S. spokesmen reported 78 enemy killed.

The North Vietnamese also attacked several South Vietnamese positions nearby, killing at least four South Vietnamese soldiers and wounding 14. In two other battles Sunday night about 30 miles northwest of Saigon, U.S. forces of the 25th Infantry Division killed 28 enemy soldiers. Three Americans were wounded.

Grad Students Undrafted; Seem To Have Disappeared

number of college graduate students being drafted this year is running far below estimates, even though deferments for diploma holders were abolished more than a year ago.

At the same time, graduate schools report a big slow-down in enrollment. Nobody knows whether the missing students were drafted, went to industry for occupational deferments, or stayed home to wait for "Greetings."

The National Security Council recommended lifting deferments in February 1968 for all graduate study except medicine and the ministry.

Critics of the move predicted a draft of 450,000 college graduates including 175,000 grad students. The more conservative Pentagon estimates were for a draft of 100,000 college graduates, including 58,000 would-be grad students in fiscal 1969.

When the fiscal year ends in June the total will probably reach no more than 25,000.

How many of these soldier-scholars were or would have been in graduate school is unknown. Asked the number of draftees with graduate credits a Pentagon spokesman replied "That would be a major research project. We just can't do it."

The elimination of graduate deferments was meant to stop students from "pyramiding" one deferment on top of another and thus staying out of the draft pool indefinitely.

Something apparently has not gone according to plan. Manpower experts both inside and outside government suggest various explanations.

All agree that an important factor was draft director Lewis P. Hershey's instruction to allow postponements of induction until the end of a school term.

Draft boards could have been inordinately slow to reclassify students, and many students may have appealed the reclassifications, creating additional delay.

Experts also believe many students have obtained occupational deferments—either as teaching assistants in the schools where they study, or by quitting school for private industry.

The U.S. Office of Education reports that enrollments in graduate schools it surveyed rose only one per cent last fall, compared with an average 12 per cent in previous years.

That would mean an apparent loss of up to 20,000 graduate students. But the Office of Education can only guess, like everyone else, where they are.

McElroy Rips 'Smear Tactic' By Magazine

Claims Life Out To Ruin Gov. Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' chief aide has accused Life magazine of smearing the governor in its account of how Rhodes commuted the life sentence of convicted Toledo killer Thomas "Yonnie" Licavoli.

The accusation came in a letter from John M. McElroy to Life printed in the current issue.

McElroy also commented on Life's charges in its May 2 edition that Rhodes was forced to pay more than $100,000 in delinquent income taxes and interest. The article was written by Pulitzer prize winner Denny Walsh.

The governor's aide said he has no personal knowledge of Rhodes' tax returns, but believed the governor when he said there was no penalty assessed or paid for failing to report or to pay any federal income tax.

The text of McElroy's letter: "Life has wronged Ohio's good and decent governor, Jim Rhodes, and deceived its readers."

"When Denny Walsh phoned me April 14 and told me why he and Russell Sackett wanted to talk with me and the governor, I said: 'You are planning to smear the governor.' Walsh has done so."

"I gave Walsh and Sackett the full story on the commutation of Thomas Licavoli's first-degree murder sentence to murder second degree and on the inmate's failure to submit an acceptable parole plan. Walsh's retelling is distorted and fictionalized."

"The key to all this can be found by slight amendment of one of Walsh's paragraphs: 'Highest in the minds of those who watch Ohio politics these days is not whether Yonnie Licavoli stays or comes out from behind bars, but what the whole Licavoli affair' as corrupted by Life 'will do to Jim Rhodes.'"

Rocky Visits In Panama

PANAMA (AP) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, making the seventh and last stop of his fact-finding mission to Central America, has heard Panama ask for a greater role in the operation of the Panama Canal.

The New York governor, who is touring the hemisphere on a special assignment from President Nixon, arrived here Sunday and met with a Panamanian government team headed by Foreign Minister Nander Pitty.

Informants said Pitty made no reference to currently stalled negotiations between the United States and Panama on a new treaty to regulate the canal. But he asked for a more effective role in its operation.

Rockefeller said future relations between the United States and Panama will "depend" importantly on the successful resolution of pending issues regarding the canal.

Before coming to Panama, Rockefeller visited Mexico, Guatemala, Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica. He is scheduled to make three more Latin American trips in the next two months, visiting all the countries except Cuba.

Rogers Tells Asian Allies U.S. Won't Abandon Them

BANGKOK, (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, arriving in Bangkok from Saigon, said today that the United States and its allies are working diligently for early peace in Vietnam.

"We all hope that the need for military action will soon be ended," he said in an airport statement.

Rogers is here to attend a meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) Tuesday and Wednesday.

He was met by Thailand's Foreign Minister Thanat Khorn and was given the traditional garland of sweet smelling jasmine flowers as a sign of welcome.

Rogers told Thanat that the United States is a member of both the Atlantic and Pacific communities.

"We do not place priorities on our relationships with Europe or Asia," he said.

He apparently intended this to reassure the Asian allies that in seeking peace in Vietnam, the United States does not intend to turn its back on Asia.

During his four-day visit to Vietnam, Rogers sought to assure the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu that the Nixon administration does not plan to abandon the war or bargain away South Vietnam's right of self determination.

But after a five-hour meeting with Rogers, Thieu said the next day that he wanted to meet with President Nixon because he felt much more coordination was needed between his government

Holdup Attempt Ends In Slayings

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The owner of an East Side beverage store, wounded in an exchange of shots in which he killed two robbers during a holdup attempt was reported in poor condition at St. Luke's today.

Tibor Berente, 31, underwent surgery following the shooting Saturday night for removal of a bullet from his abdomen.

Police said the two men killed were identified through fingerprints Sunday as 22-year-old Rufus Byers Jr., of Cleveland, and Robert Lynch, 23, of East Cleveland. Both had police records.

Space Color TV Quality Excellent

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The blue and white disc bobbed in the black vastness of space as an astronaut focused the camera. A zoom lens pulled the image closer, then pushed it away.

It was man's first live, full color television view of home as seen from outer space.

The three Apollo 10 astronauts surged nearer the moon with another color television broadcast on schedule for 4:04 p.m. EDT.

Space Center spokesmen said either the earth or moon might be televised and that more than one broadcast was possible.

Apollo 10 Commander Thomas P. Stafford had said before and the United States.

Some South Vietnamese are worried that Nixon in his intense efforts to secure peace may come under pressure in the United States to make concessions to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. Premier Tran Van Huong told the Associated Press in an interview that "the Americans are too anxious to get peace."

Army To Incorporate Guard, Reserves In New Planning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army staff is studying a plan that would tie some 650,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists more closely to emergency war plans.

This is the fourth effort since 1962 to improve the readiness of guard-reserve backup forces. Planners are shooting for deployment of some units overseas four weeks after they are mobilized.

The new proposal would probably mean the end of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's "Selected Reserve Force"—137,000 men in units in theory prepared to deploy eight weeks after callup.

However, in the limited guard-reserve mobilization last year, the first of 43 units activated did not reach Vietnam until 15 weeks after callup. That unit was a dental detachment.

The new proposal takes on added importance because the Nixon administration is looking ahead to a possible million-man reduction in regular forces over a three-year period after Vietnam.

Unlike past moves, the new proposal does not involve eliminating any more guard or reserve units. About 3,500 surplus or obsolete outfits were culled out of the guard-reserve structure in a series of reorganizations.

Details are secret, but Pentagon sources said the new plan ties specific Guard and Reserve units to specific war plans, and

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of college graduate students being drafted this year is running far below estimates, even though deferments for diploma holders were abolished more than a year ago.

At the same time, graduate schools report a big slow-down in enrollment. Nobody knows whether the missing students were drafted, went to industry for occupational deferments, or stayed home to wait for "Greetings."

The National Security Council recommended lifting deferments in February 1968 for all graduate study except medicine and the ministry.

Critics of the move predicted a draft of 450,000 college graduates including 175,000 grad students. The more conservative Pentagon estimates were for a draft of 100,000 college graduates, including 58,000 would-be grad students in fiscal 1969.

When the fiscal year ends in June the total will probably reach no more than 25,000.

How many of these soldier-scholars were or would have been in graduate school is unknown. Asked the number of draftees with graduate credits a Pentagon spokesman replied "That would be a major research project. We just can't do it."

The elimination of graduate deferments was meant to stop students from "pyramiding" one deferment on top of another and thus staying out of the draft pool indefinitely.

Something apparently has not gone according to plan. Manpower experts both inside and outside government suggest various explanations.

All agree that an important factor was draft director Lewis B. Hershey's instruction to allow postponements of induction until the end of a school term.

Draft boards could have been inordinately slow to reclassify students, and many students may have appealed the reclassifications, creating additional delay.

Experts also believe many students have obtained occupational deferments—either as teaching assistants in the schools where they study, or by quitting school for private industry.

The U.S. Office of Education reports that enrollments in graduate schools it surveyed rose only one per cent last fall, compared with an average 12 per cent in previous years.

That would mean an apparent loss of up to 20,000 graduate students. But the Office of Education can only guess. Like everyone else, where they are.

Lofty Ceremony Unites Couple

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A "lofty" ceremony joined a Dallas couple in marriage Sunday when Justice of the Peace Joe B. Brown Jr. officiated at vows recited at 2,000 feet.

Sue Ann Kohler and Bryce Lank exchanged rings and then returned to earth via parachutes.

The bride was attired in a light blue voile dress trimmed in white lace, topped by a jump suit and worn with new jump boots.

Rogers Tells Asian Allies U.S. Won't Abandon Them

BANGKOK, (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, arriving in Bangkok from Saigon, said today that the United States and its allies are working diligently for early peace in Vietnam.

"We all hope that the need for military action will soon be ended," he said in an airport statement.

Rogers is here to attend a meeting of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) Tuesday and Wednesday.

He was met by Thailand's Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman and was given the traditional garland of sweet smelling jasmine flowers as a sign of welcome.

Rogers told Thanat that the United States is a member of both the Atlantic and Pacific communities.

"We do not place priorities on our relationships with Europe or Asia," he said.

He apparently intended this to reassure the Asian allies that in seeking peace in Vietnam, the United States does not intend to turn its back on Asia.

During his four-day visit to Vietnam, Rogers sought to assure the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu that the Nixon administration does not plan to abandon the war or bargain away South Vietnam's right of self determination.

But after a five-hour meeting with Rogers, Thieu said the next day that he wanted to meet with President Nixon because he felt much more coordination was needed between his government and the United States.

Some South Vietnamese are worried that Nixon in his intensive efforts to secure peace may come under pressure in the United States to make concessions to the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. Premier Tran Van Huong told the Associated Press in an interview that "the Americans are too anxious to get peace."

Army To Incorporate Guard, Reserves In New Planning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army staff is studying a plan that would take the some 650,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists more closely to emergency war plans.

This is the fourth effort since 1962 to improve the readiness of guard-reserve backup forces. Planners are shooting for deployment of some units overseas four weeks after they are mobilized.

The new proposal would probably mean the end of former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's "Selected Reserve Force"—137,000 men in units in theory prepared to deploy eight weeks after callup.

However, in the limited guard-reserve mobilization last year, the first of 43 units activated did not reach Vietnam until 15 weeks after callup. That unit was a dental detachment.

The new proposal takes on added importance because the Nixon administration is looking ahead to a possible million-man reduction in regular forces over a three-year period after Vietnam.

Unlike past moves, the new proposal does not involve eliminating any more guard or reserve units. About 3,500 surplus or obsolete outfits were culled out of the guard-reserve structure in a series of reorganizations.

Details are secret, but Pentagon sources said the new plan ties specific Guard and Reserve units to specific war plans, and changes the composition of the backup forces as national contingency plans change.

All guard and reserve units would be assigned missions which would involve their possible deployment with four, eight, 12, 16, or more weeks post-mobilization active duty training.

Pentagon planning calls for 395,000 National Guard and 256,000 reserve troops next year.

Under the McNamara plan, units were designated for special priority in equipment and extra training.

Because of Vietnam, the selected Reserve Force has only about 50 per cent of the equipment it was supposed to receive. The rest went instead to new regular Army units formed during the war buildup.

Guard Patrols Burlington

BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — National Guardsmen, state and local police patrolled virtually deserted streets as rain helped start a weekend damper on this racially troubled city.

Police said only a few arrests were made Sunday, mostly for curfew violations, and no shooting incidents were reported. A countywide curfew was in force from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m.

The 400 National Guardsmen were ordered into the city Friday after Negroes marched on the city school administration building to protest a cheerleader election at Walter Williams High School in which no Negroes were chosen.

A 15-year-old youth was fatally shot Friday night near a grocery store which police said was being looted.

More than 150 persons were arrested and one Negro man was wounded by gunfire Saturday night.

Investigate Blaze Fatal To Man, 51

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Firemen in Cuyahoga Falls are investigating a fire that killed 51-year-old Carl Walter early Sunday. The fire reportedly was preceded by an explosion. Relatives said Walter lived on the first floor of the home on Tenth Street.

Space Color TV Quality Excellent

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—The blue and white disc bobbed in the black vastness of space as an astronaut focused the camera. A zoom lens pulled the image closer, then pushed it away.

It was man's first live, full color television view of home as seen from outer space.

The three Apollo 10 astronauts surged nearer the moon with another color television broadcast on schedule for 4:04 p.m. EDT.

Space Center spokesmen said either the earth or moon might be televised and that more than one broadcast was possible.

Apollo 10 Commander Thomas P. Stafford had said before

Sunday's liftoff that he and fellow astronauts John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan would telecast from space whenever time allowed.

The spacemen beamed back three shows for a total of 72 minutes air time Sunday, including two unscheduled "specials" of earth.

They caught commercial TV off guard on the second bonus broadcast and appeared only on closed-circuit television at Mission Control. It included a close-up view of the spaceship interior—so close that viewers could count the stars and stripes on the tiny American flag stitched to Young's sleeve.

The view from space was, as astronaut Cernan put it, "unbelievable."

First came remarkably clear views of Snoopy, the moon machine that will take two of the three men on man's closest inspection trip of the moon.

Colors during the first space view ranged from brilliant orange to steel gray. In one close-up, tiny numerals on Snoopy could be read with ease.

Then came the great show, man's first live, color view of his home planet from a spaceship speeding through space at 20,000 m.p.h.

"You know, you blink your eyes and look out there, and you know it's three dimensional, but it's just sitting out there in the middle of nowhere. It's unbelievable," Cernan reported.

The black emptiness of space—Cernan called it the "blackest black that you ever did see"—provided a backdrop to the earth's cloud-swathed continents and oceans.

The spacemen scanned the globe and reported on its wonders—the browns and greens of continents, the blues of the oceans, clouds like cotton candy.

"We see the Rocky mountains sticking out. . . . Can't tell if you have any smog in L.A. (Los Angeles) or not. But Alaska is pretty much socked in," one astronaut said.

They spotted the North Pole, Texas and Oklahoma.

Winners Named In Historical Society Contest

Five Pickaway County young people are recipients of memberships in the Junior Division of the Pickaway County Historical Society.

The five correctly identified the plaque at the First Presbyterian Church, E. Mound St., which was pictured in The Herald.

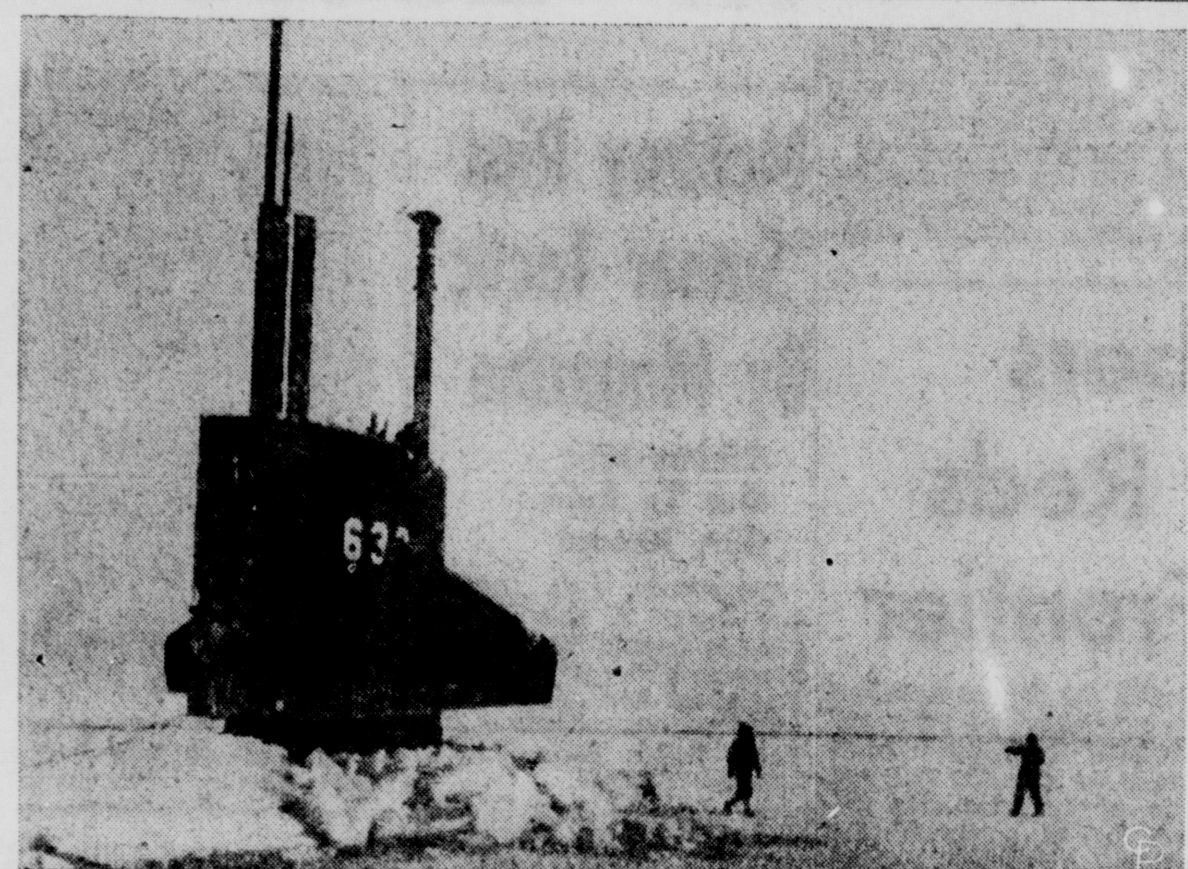

They are: Debbie Walters, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Henry Walters, Collins Court; Linda Sue Gentzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gentzel, 210 Lancaster Pike; Klara Tammany, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Tammany, Knollwood Village; Tracey and Lee Jolliffe, children of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jolliffe, 270 Walnut Creek Pike.

"On the First Presbyterian Church, Mound Street, Circleville, there is a plaque beneath the tower. The inscription on it is as follows: 'In memory of Rev. James Rowland, Pastor of this church for eleven years. Died November 9, 1854 and whose body rests beneath this tower. Remember the words I spoke while yet with you.'"

"The people were building a second church under Rev. Rowland's leadership. The year before it was finished, he died of tuberculosis. They held his funeral in the unfinished church. The people asked permission of Mrs. Rowland to bury him under the tower and she consented. Years later when they were building a third church... They located Mrs. Rowland in Connecticut to ask if they could move him to the location under the new tower. Again she consented and Rev. Rowland is now there."

The above quotation is from one of the letters received. One other contestant added the information that Rev. Rowland was 39 at the time of his death. It is believed that this burial is one of very few west of the Allegheny Mountains where a Protestant minister is buried in his church. Another extraneous bit of information concerning Rev. Rowland is that his granddaughter married Gene Tunney.

A WHALE AT THE NORTH POLE—Two crew members take a stroll at the North Pole after the United States nuclear-powered submarine Nautilus surfaced through the ice during an exercise designed to demonstrate under-ice capabilities.

Local Realtors Observe National Realtor Week

"Home Ownership — Foundation of the Nation" has been selected as the theme of Realtor Week May 18-24, Rolland Featheringham, president of the Pickaway County Board of Realtors, announced today.

The fourteen members of this board are joining with more than 87,000 Realtors throughout the nation in community-wide observances and activities directing attention to the professional services they render and their efforts to help solve the major problems of our cities and towns.

"Home ownership is enjoyed by more than two-thirds of the families across the nation," Featheringham said. This record of home ownership is matched by few other countries in the world, but it can become an even greater boon as it is extended to increasing numbers of low income families through special programs and efforts. This goal is just one of those incorporated in the "Make America Better Program" of Realtors.

The term realtor is an indicator of particular qualifications because only a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards and one of the more than 1,550 local boards can identify himself by that term. "To be eligible for membership, a candidate must demonstrate a superior knowledge of the business, possess a record of business integrity, and finally, subscribe to a strict code of ethics."

"The code of ethics is important," he added. "One of the first adopted in the history of American business, it is based on the Golden Rule. Under its 30 articles, the Realtor pledges to keep the interests of both the buyer and seller uppermost in his mind during the entire transaction."

Featheringham praised Realtors' leadership over the years in championing the institution of private property and working to make home purchases possible for whole new classes of buyers.

"The members of this board feel they have contributed greatly to the nation's prosperity. NAREB and its leaders have for years urged and promoted home ownership both by the business in which they are engaged and by support of legislation and custom that have made purchase possible for millions of families who could not previously afford it," Featheringham concluded.

Jack Marion and Mrs. Alice Marie Duvall were married Friday by Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb in his chambers.

Sheriff Sends Unruly Inmate To Other Jail

An unruly prisoner has been transferred from Pickaway to the Fayette County jail, according to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

The Pickaway County sheriff stated that Lawrence Brown, charged with eight counts of writing bad checks and two counts of larceny by trick, became unruly in the county jail Thursday. Sheriff Radcliff stated that Brown threw a tin serving plate at one of the cooks.

Brown was taken to the Circleville City Jail Thursday evening until arrangements could be made to transfer him to Fayette County.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald Thompson reported that Brown has been on a hunger strike since arriving at his 6-foot square cell Friday evening.

Radcliff stated that Brown was transferred because of a local lack of facilities to supervise and control prisoner activities. He stated that the jail will have such facilities following its remodeling this summer.

Explosion Hits Slaughterhouse; Bad Pipe Blamed

The explosion that struck a slaughterhouse south of Harrisburg Saturday morning has been traced to a faulty gas pipe, according to Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

Radcliff stated that Deputy Bill Dountz, along with members of the state fire marshals office and the state department of health have been investigating the explosion since Saturday.

The source and quality of the meat stored in the small locker and butcher house is also being investigated, according to the sheriff.

The explosion, which caused an estimated $5,000 damage, was reported to the sheriff's department by the Harrisburg Police Department about 8 a.m. Saturday.

WHO IS MARTY ? ? ? ? ?

"SECRET CEREMONY"

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Hubby Has Lover? Wife Has One, Too!

DEAR ABBY: I am sure that my husband is running around with another woman. Is there any way I can find out who she is? I can't afford to hire a private detective right now, but as soon as my boy friend comes back from Viet Nam I will be in better financial shape, as he says in his letters he is doing very well over there.

So please let me know if there is some kind of detective outfit that will let me pay for their services on time with a small down payment. Thank you.

SUSPICIOUS IN SAN DIEGO
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: I know of no detective agency that "looks now and collects later." Wouldn't it be a whole lot neater if you told your husband about your boyfriend and asked him about his girl friend?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for over a dozen years and have four fine children. Out of the blue, he told me that he had a 16-year-old son! The girl got pregnant while they were both in college. She left school, making no effort to contact him and he never even thought of her again. Then they accidentally met 3 weeks ago at an airport terminal.

She told him about their "son" (I'll call him "Buddy"), and that she was married. Buddy has been legally adopted by her husband. She said she was glad she ran into him as she had been having her problems with Buddy and maybe he could help.

Buddy wrote my husband a letter telling him all about himself and he ends up with, "I would like to come and visit you." My husband says he has no feelings about the boy one way or the other, but he'd have no objection to having him visit us, and he hopes I wouldn't have.

No one in our community knows about this, and I prefer to keep it that way. I certainly don't want our children to find out. I can't have Buddy visiting us without answering a lot of question.

Abby, this woman and her son went about their own business for 16 years. My husband had forgotten her, and now she reappears to upset everything. Thank God we live 1,000 miles apart. What is the right thing to do in this matter? Your advice is badly needed.

PLEASE, NO NAME
DEAR NO NAME: Urge your husband to realize that his first consideration should be you and your children. If he really wants to see Buddy, he should meet him somewhere, but for the boy to visit your home would be unfair and unwise.

DEAR ABBY: After my umpteenth argument with my mother, I flounced out of her house and headed for the back porch, where I sat brooding. A newspaper lying nearby caught my eye. Picking it up, I began idly looking thru it until I came to Dear Abby's column of advice. "Maybe other people's problems will make mine seem less bad," I thought, starting to read. Suddenly I was stopped by your answer to one problem, which seemed to have been especially written for me. It said: "It's the same old story; you can abuse a mother, neglect her, but you can win her back with only four words. 'Mom, I love you.'"

I hurried back into the house. My mother was seated at the kitchen table, looking so tired and dejected, it cut me up. I went over to her, put my arms around her and, said "Mom, I love you."

Without a word she hugged me tight, then burst into tears. And before I knew it, I was crying, too, and we both had a good cry together.

Since then we get along much better—perhaps because I always find a way to say, "Mom, I love you." Thank you, Abby.

Competitive Bidding Opinion Is Given

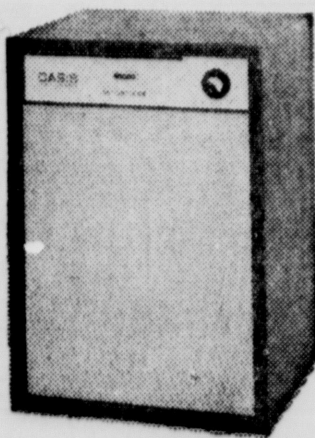

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Competitive bidding for group insurance contracts is required when the group premium cost exceeds $2,000, Atty. Gen. Paul W. Brown ruled Friday.

Brown's ruling came in an opinion requested by Huron County Prosecutor Bernard W. Freeman who said there is no statutory limitation on the terms of a health contract.

In a second ruling requested by Auditor Roger Cloud, Brown held that township trustees may purchase hospitalization, surgical, major medical or sickness and accident insurance on a group basis only.

NEW YORK (AP) — Space exploration has gone a long way since John Glenn took off a few years ago, and so has television's expertise in covering the space shots.

When three astronauts set off Sunday for a trip around the moon, the television audience had its usual front row seat for the drama of the blast-off.

The coverage of the event, preceded by explanations and illustrations, was almost flawless.

Everything went smoothly—although it did seem that those veteran space reporters were more impressed by the sheer size and weight of the rocket than almost any other aspect of the adventure.

As it turned out, Apollo 10 and its crew added the one extra dimension to the coverage by their own use of television. A few hours into the flight we were able to watch in color the docking maneuver required to latch the lunar module in position on the capsule and later pictures of earth from space.

Back when the space exploration started, it was mourned that none of the astronauts could find words to describe adequately the experience. They still can't—on Sunday they were relying on words like "terrific" and "copacetic." But now that a color TV camera has been added to their equipment, they don't have to find words, we can see for ourselves.

NBC in the early evening presented a half-hour cartoon show, "Pogo's Special Birthday Special," based on the animal characters of Walt Kelly and starring Pogo, the possum.

It was a charming story about friendly animals wrangling amiably about their favorite holiday. Then it buckled down to a little story about a surprise birthday party for Porky Pine.

The animation was excellent, the humor gentle and it was a treat for small children. It would be nice, though, if there were more shows around like the delightful "Charlie Brown" classics which entertain children as well as the adults in the audience.

NBC plans to turn over its prized "Laugh-In" spot on Monday nights during the summer to some pilot programs for shows it was interested in developing.

The problem was that all the shows were only 30 minutes long and "Laugh-In" is an hour show. The network's solution has been to let its Monday night movie re-runs—normally chopped down to fill a two-hour time block—run to two and one-half hours, with time out, of course for commercials.

Among the pilots are two starring Forrest Tucker, who plays a doctor in one and a con man in the other; Craig ("Peter Gunn") Stevens playing a widower trying to raise three daughters, and a short variety series starring Roy Rogers and Dale Evans.

Recommended tonight: Alan King and Buddy Hackett special, NBC, 8-9 EDT, comedy and satire.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Hubby Has Lover? Wife Has One, Too!

DEAR ABBY: I am sure that my husband is running around with another woman. Is there any way I can find out who she is? I can't afford to hire a private detective right now, but as soon as my boy friend comes back from Viet Nam I will be in better financial shape, as he says in his letters he is doing very well over there.

So please let me know if there is some kind of detective outfit that will let me pay for their services on time with a small down payment. Thank you.

SUSPICIOUS IN SAN DIEGO
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: I know of no detective agency that "looks now and collects later." Wouldn't it be a whole lot neater if you told your husband about your boyfriend and asked him about his girl friend?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for over a dozen years and have four fine children. Out of the blue, he told me that he had a 16-year-old son! The girl got pregnant while they were both in college. She left school, making no effort to contact him and he never even thought of her again. Then they accidentally met 3 weeks ago at an airport terminal.

She told him about their "son" (I'll call him "Buddy"), and that she was married. Buddy has been legally adopted by her husband. She said she was glad she ran into him as she had been having her problems with Buddy and maybe he could help.

Buddy wrote my husband a letter telling him all about himself and he ends up with, "I would like to come and visit you." My husband says he has no feelings about the boy one way or the other, but he'd have no objection to having him visit us, and he hopes I wouldn't have.

No one in our community knows about this, and I prefer to keep it that way. I certainly don't want our children to find out. I can't have Buddy visiting us without answering a lot of question.

Abby, this woman and her son went about their own business for 16 years. My husband had forgotten her, and now she reappears to upset everything. Thank God we live 1,000 miles apart. What is the right thing to do in this matter? Your advice is badly needed.

PLEASE, NO NAME
DEAR NO NAME: Urge your husband to realize that his first consideration should be you and your children. If he really wants to see Buddy, he should meet him somewhere, but for the boy to visit your home would be unfair and unwise.

DEAR ABBY: After my umpteenth argument with my mother, I flounced out of the house and headed for the back porch, where I sat brooding. A newspaper lying nearby caught my eye. Picking it up, I began idly looking thru it until I came to Dear Abby's column of advice. "Maybe other people's problems will make mine seem less bad," I thought, starting to read. Suddenly I was stopped by your answer to one problem, which seemed to have been especially written for me. It said: "It's the same old story; you can abuse a mother, neglect her, but you can win her back with only four words. 'Mom, I love you.'"

I hurried back into the house. My mother was seated at the kitchen table, looking so tired and dejected, it cut me up. I went over to her, put my arms around her and, said "Mom I love you."

Without a word she hugged me tight, then burst into tears. And before I knew it, I was crying, too, and we both had a good cry together.

Since then we get along much better—perhaps because I always find a way to say, "Mom, I love you."

Thank you, Abby.

Understanding Needed

It was only a little more than a year ago that the first successful heart transplant was made. There was great worldwide interest.

While other organ transplants had been made, apparently the conception of the heart as the center of life made laymen think this medical breakthrough granted man almost endless immunity from death.

Noticeably, doctors made no such extravagant claims. They merely worried about keeping heart recipients alive. Many have succumbed, and even the public is less excited now about the "miracle" of heart transplants.

New testimony from a member of the heart transplant team at Stanford University, Dr. Donald T. Lunde, may be more dampening. A psychiatrist, Dr. Lunde says that five of the 13 people who received heart transplants at Stanford last year developed severe post-operative psychosis. There also were less dramatic effects, such as change in self-image.

One 42-year-old man decided he had become 20 — the age of his heart donor.

Since medical science began to flourish in the last century, mankind has become increasingly convinced that the human body is just a mechanism. The idea of slipping in new spare parts to keep the mechanism operating is a result of this simplistic conception.

But medical science itself long ago discarded such a view, and stands in awe of the complexity and mystery of the body.

If all men understood how miraculous is the human body they take for granted, perhaps man would have more respect for himself and for other human beings.

Study Of Nature

Nature opens to a man a wonderful book in the form of the life of the planet on which he lives. To study its pages carefully is a rewarding activity. Many persons are assiduous students of natural life and find it a most interesting pursuit.

Study of nature helps people to become observant, and to see meaning and purpose in plants and trees and animals and insects, and all the infinite variety of life that exists on this planet. Nature students gain a keener appreciation of the world in which they live.

Time spent in study of nature is well employed.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Results of a survey released recently suggest that young executives may be willing to take more job or career risks today than just a decade or so ago.

As a result, some of the nation's largest corporations may be losing some of their best men to smaller firms.

The conclusion is one that can be drawn from a study made by an executive recruiter with offices here and in London. The recruiter found a surprising number of executives with big companies preferred smaller operations.

Although precise comparisons cannot be made easily, the results suggest that two major changes of attitude have developed during the past decade: more willingness to change jobs and more willingness to go with smaller companies.

Kiernan & Company mailed its questionnaire late in 1968 to 492 job seekers between the ages of 30 and 45 who were then working for companies with annual sales of $100 million or more and who were earning $20,000 to $35,000.

The men were asked if they preferred a job with a similar size company or a larger one, or with a relatively small to medium company with sales of $10 million to $50 million a year.

Of more than 360 replies, 228 or 63 per cent said they preferred a smaller company, with only 132 or 36 per cent said they desired to work in a similar size or larger operation.

Based on comments accompanying the reply, the management consultant concluded that one of the chief reasons for seeking work with the smaller firm was the possibility of obtaining equity participation in addition to salary.

In recent years tremendous publicity has been given to young entrepreneurs and executives with middle size companies who expanded operations dramatically—with equally spectacular financial returns to themselves.

Another possible explanation, said the recruiter, is that individuals during the past decade or more seem to have become more assertive in all areas of endeavor, and that in business this tendency is shown by a desire to participate in decisions and ownership.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

WILSON MIZNER, a confirmed practical joker, once drove a beaten-up, dilapidated jalopy up to the canopy of a super-colossal Hollywood premiere, and left it right where it would block the stream of Rolls-Royces driving up behind. "Hey, you can't leave that piece of junk here," screamed a frenzied eighth-vice-president of the picture company. "My good man," said Mizner airily, "that's your tip!"

There's a story about a new home owner whose wife simply adored daffodils. So last September, just after they had moved in, she and her husband spent a long, long weekend doing nothing but planting daffodil bulbs. They had just finished planting the last one and, completely exhausted, were heading for the bar when a neighbor stopped his car out front to call to them. "If you think this place is pretty now, just wait till you see it in the spring! It's one solid field of daffodils!"

From the musings of Col. Francis Duffy:
Nothing ruins friendship quicker than one woman infringing on another's symptoms. . . . Sign in the window of a wallpaper store: "Stop in here, and hang the consequences." . . . Half the world spends more than half its time wondering how the other half can afford it. . . . "You're entitled to your opinion," he'll tell you on the spot—but from the way he says it, you rather feel you're not! . . . If you drive carefully enough, all you need is a strong rear bumper.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Do diseases fall into special categories? I have always been curious to know how doctors, with their special training, come to a conclusion about the cause of a condition and frequently without the benefit of laboratory reports.

Mr. E.O., New Jersey
Dear Mr. O.: The art and science of medical diagnosis can be taught to many physicians. Some have a very special perceptive quality that makes it possible for them to cut through a great deal of confusion to arrive at a proper diagnosis. Surgeons and physicians can almost immediately sense, by the general appearance and attitude of a patient, the degree of their illness. The color and texture of the skin, the clouding of the eyes, the spiritless weakness of speech all reveal important secrets.

Doctors frequently pay their morning visit to a hospitalized patient, and in a flash can tell that recovery is rapidly taking place. It may happen overnight and a patient is suddenly transformed into one who is soon ready to be discharged.

There are some general classifications of all disease. Infection caused by bacteria, viruses and molds are probably the most important. Allergy to food, drugs, inhalants and contactants is a major cause of body dysfunction.

Tumors, the most frequent classification for any growth, may occur anywhere in the body. These are subdivided into malignant (cancerous) and benign (harmless).

Injury, of course, can devitalize tissue and destroy it by fractures, bruises, cuts and by contact with physical agents. Electricity, sunray and X-ray radiation are in essence an injury to tissue.

Degenerative changes due to advancing age with narrowing of the blood vessels and weakening of the muscles, tendons and joints are a special cause of disease. Heredity does play a very important role in the cause of some illnesses and predisposition to others. Physical and mental disorders can be traced to the improper balance of the chromosomes or some genetic error.

Nutritional disturbances, inadequate diet, lack of water and essential minerals can produce typical deficiency diseases.

It is now established that the emotions play a role in every aspect of the body's health and disease. It is true that some illnesses are actually caused by the emotions alone. In most instances, the emotions play a role in physical disease not only as a cause, but as an overtone to it. The emotions can affect the proper functioning of the heart, the blood vessels, the brain and the intestinal tract. Physicians now know that in order for a patient to be totally recovered from disease, he must be completely treated both from the physical and from the emotional point of view.

Business Man And Peace

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

H. G. Wells, who used to be regarded as the world's oracle, liked to say that the future was a race between education and catastrophe. If he had lived to see the doings at Harvard, Columbia, the City College of New York, and California's Berkeley, he might have decided that education, as practiced in America, is in itself a species of catastrophe. The letters this column gets from students supporting the "idealism" of the current college generation breathe an almost total ignorance of such things as the history of Marxism, the actual contributions of capitalism, the geographical basis of politics, the significance of the balance of power in world history, and the psychopathology of totalitarian governments. It will not do, of course, to confuse the letter writers with the entire body of college undergraduates, but there are enough of them to be a cause for worry, inasmuch as they are setting up shop as the leaders of the future.

Since education has, in its way, become synonymous with catastrophe, we must look elsewhere for human hope. I find it in the race between the mundane world of commercial and related scientific development and the spirit of war.

Thus, in the Middle East, which many critics say is the incubation theatre for World War III, some two hundred American firms continue to invest in Israel despite the Arab threat to renew the war against the "Zionists." They do this in spite of the official Arab boycott of anything produced inside the Israeli borders. The Dodge division of the Chrysler Company continues to roll out trucks from its assembly plant in Nazareth (which, incidentally, has an Arab mayor who was once a refugee in Lebanon). Motorola, Zenith, Monsanto Chemical, and Ford have important Israeli operations. Neither the threats of boycott in Cairo nor the supposed imminence of war keep these and other American companies from betting on the Middle Eastern future.

It is not idealism that supports the American investment in Israel, although we do have our pro-Israeli businessmen.

The reason most companies prefer to trust their future to the Israeli star is that they find it more profitable than cultivating Arab goodwill. Israel, in contrast to the Arab countries, has a modern economy: it assembles automobiles, it has a thriving electronic development, it is pre-eminent in chemical and medical research, the discoveries made in its aircraft parts industry have actually turned the French Mirage into a good military plane, and it has found a market for Dead Sea bromine as a first-rate material for fire-proofing wood. Inasmuch as trade is possible only between countries that have something to sell to each other, Israel is worth cultivating where other Middle Eastern countries are not.

Coming back from the Middle East, Jack R. Carlin, who runs the research products division of Miles Laboratories, Inc., gave this column a good run-down on the reasons his company set up a citric acid plant in Israel. With a market all over Africa and Asia for citric acid, it was good business to locate in Israel because of its central location. But, beyond that, there was the opportunity to make use of the mind products of Israeli scientists, who are among the best in the world in such departments as molecular biology.

Although Israel is an embattled nation, it leaves its scientists alone: there is no pressure on them to do commercial or military work. Paradoxically, however, the basic research of Israeli scientists has resulted in some 900 products which Miles Laboratories, Inc., finds saleable throughout the world. The Israelis have pioneered the use of isotopes in tracing sources of water, for example, and they have made great advances in the molecular biology that deals with the so-called "building blocks" of genetics.

If the Arab world is ever to recover from the sluggishness that resulted from the long period of subjugation by the Turks ("where the Turk sets foot, the grass never grows"), it will have to make peace with Israeli technologists and agricultural scientists. Even as things stand at present, there are a thousand leaks in the Arab boycott of Israel. The bridges across the Jordan never seem to get shelled although border incidents are a dime a dozen: while the guerrilla raids and the retaliation go on, trucks carrying goods to and from Israel continue their commercial way. And the Hilton, Sheraton, and Holiday Inn Hotel chains operate both in Israel and in Arab lands without visible discrimination.

Commerce thus undermines the spirit of revenge, and the future has become a race between the technicians who dominate modern business and the Nassers who continue to talk war.

Understanding Needed

It was only a little more than a year ago that the first successful heart transplant was made. There was great worldwide interest.

While other organ transplants had been made, apparently the conception of the heart as the center of life made laymen think this medical breakthrough granted man almost endless immunity from death.

Noticeably, doctors made no such extravagant claims. They merely worried about keeping heart recipients alive. Many have succumbed, and even the public is less excited now about the "miracle" of heart transplants.

New testimony from a member of the heart transplant team at Stanford University, Dr. Donald T. Lunde, may be more dampening. A psychiatrist, Dr. Lunde says that five of the 13 people who received heart transplants at Stanford last year developed severe post-operative psychosis. There also were less dramatic effects, such as change in self-image.

One 42-year-old man decided he had become 20 — the age of his heart donor.

Since medical science began to flourish in the last century, mankind has become increasingly convinced that the human body is just a mechanism. The idea of slipping in new spare parts to keep the mechanism operating is a result of this simplistic conception.

But medical science itself long ago discarded such a view, and stands in awe of the complexity and mystery of the body.

If all men understood how miraculous is the human body they take for granted, perhaps man would have more respect for himself and for other human beings.

Study Of Nature

Nature opens to a man a wonderful book in the form of the life of the planet on which he lives. To study its pages carefully is a rewarding activity. Many persons are assiduous students of natural life and find it a most interesting pursuit.

become observant, and to see meaning and purpose in plants and trees and animals and insects, and all the infinite variety of life that exists on this planet. Nature students gain a keener appreciation of the world in which they live.

Time spent in study of nature is well employed.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Results of a survey released recently suggest that young executives may be willing to take more job or career risks today than just a decade or so ago.

As a result, some of the nation's largest corporations may be losing some of their best men to smaller firms.

The conclusion is one that can be drawn from a study made by an executive recruiter with offices here and in London. The recruiter found a surprising number of executives with big companies preferred smaller operations.

Although precise comparisons cannot be made easily, the results suggest that two major changes of attitude have developed during the past decade: more willingness to change jobs and more willingness to go with smaller companies.

Kiernan & Company mailed its questionnaire late in 1968 to 492 job seekers between the ages of 30 and 45 who were then working for companies with annual sales of $100 million or more and who were earning $20,000 to $35,000.

The men were asked if they preferred a job with a similar size company or a larger one, or with a relatively small to medium company with sales of $10 million to $50 million a year.

Of more than 360 replies, 228 or 63 per cent said they preferred a smaller company, with only 132 or 36 per cent said they desired to work in a similar size or larger operation.

Based on comments accompanying the reply, the management consultant concluded that one of the chief reasons for seeking work with the smaller firm was the possibility of obtaining equity participation in addition to salary.

In recent years tremendous publicity has been given to young entrepreneurs and executives with middle size companies who expanded operations dramatically—with equally spectacular financial returns to themselves.

Another possible explanation, said the recruiter, is that individuals during the past decade or more seem to have become more assertive in all areas of endeavor, and that in business this tendency is shown by a desire to participate in decisions and ownership.

Many of those questioned, the recruiter observed, exhibit a daring that hardly is characteristic of slightly older men—men who had felt acutely the deprivations of the Great Depression, of the 1930s.

The recruiting firm found these to be among the most common reasons for preferring the smaller company:

—Greater opportunity for assuming more responsibility and direct participation in the growth of the company in a shorter time. —Chance to be a member of the top executive group and be in on policy decisions that influence the entire company.

One executive explained he wanted more opportunity to "swing, enjoy and build." And another said that associates in smaller firms are more stimulating and profit-oriented.

Explained one: "A small company is like a stream that can run freely without a lot of dams and artificial obstacles."

WILSON MIZNER, a confirmed practical joker, once drove a beaten-up, dilapidated jalopy up to the canopy of a super-colossal Hollywood premiere, and left it right where it would block the stream of Rolls-Royces driving up behind. "Hey, you can't leave that piece of junk here," screamed a frenzied eighth-vice-president of the picture company. "My good man," said Mizner airily, "that's your tip!"

There's a story about a new home owner whose wife simply adored daffodils. So last September, just after they had moved in, she and her husband spent a long, long weekend doing nothing but planting daffodil bulbs. They had just finished, planting the last one and, completely exhausted, were heading for the bar when a neighbor stopped his car out front to call to them, "If you think this place is pretty now, just wait till you see it in the spring! It's one solid field of daffodils!"

From the musings of Col. Francis Duffy:

Half the world spends more than half its time wondering how the other half can afford it. . . . Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Do diseases fall into special categories? I have always been curious to know how doctors, with their special training, come to a conclusion about the cause of a condition and frequently without the benefit of laboratory reports.

Mr. E.O., New Jersey Dear Mr. O.: The art and science of medical diagnosis can be taught to many physicians. Some have a very special perceptive quality that makes it possible for them to cut through a great deal of confusion to arrive at a proper diagnosis. Surgeons and physicians can almost immediately sense, by the general appearance and attitude of a patient, the degree of their illness. The color and texture of the skin, the clouding of the eyes, the spiritless weakness of speech all reveal important secrets.

Doctors frequently pay their morning visit to a hospitalized patient, and in a flash can tell that recovery is rapidly taking place. It may happen overnight and a patient is suddenly transformed into one who is soon ready to be discharged.

There are some general classifications of all disease. Infection caused by bacteria, viruses and molds are probably the most important. Allergy to food, drugs, inhalants and contactants is a major cause of body dysfunction. Tumors, the most frequent classification for any growth, may occur anywhere in the body. These are subdivided into malignant (cancerous) and benign (harmless).

Injury, of course, can devitalize tissue and destroy it by fractures, bruises, cuts and by contact with physical agents. Electricity, sunray and X-ray radiation are in essence an injury to tissue.

Degenerative changes due to advancing age with narrowing of the blood vessels and weakening of the muscles, tendons and joints are a special cause of disease. Heredity does play a very important role in the cause of some illnesses and predisposition to others. Physical and mental disorders can be traced to the improper balance of the chromosomes or some genetic error.

Nutritional disturbances, inadequate diet, lack of water and essential minerals can produce typical deficiency diseases.

It is now established that the emotions play a role in every aspect of the body's health and disease. It is true that some illnesses are actually caused by the emotions alone. In most instances, the emotions play a role in physical disease not only as a cause, but as an overtone to it. The emotions can affect the proper functioning of the heart, the blood vessels, the brain and the intestinal tract. Physicians now know that in order for a patient to be totally recovered from disease, he must be completely treated both from the physical and from the emotional point of view.

Business Man And Peace

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

H. G. Wells, who used to be regarded as the world's oracle, liked to say that the future was a race between education and catastrophe. If he had lived to see the doings at Harvard, Columbia, the City College of New York, and California's Berkeley, he might have decided that education, as practiced in America, is in itself a species of catastrophe. The letters this column gets from students supporting the "idealism" of the current college generation breathe an almost total ignorance of such things as the history of Marxism, the actual contributions of capitalism, the geographical basis of politics, the significance of the balance of power in world history, and the psychopathology of totalitarian governments. It will not do, of course, to confuse the letter writers with the entire body of college undergraduates, but there are enough of them to be a cause for worry, inasmuch as they are setting up shop as the leaders of the future.

Since education has, in its way, become synonymous with catastrophe, we must look elsewhere for human hope. I find it in the race between the mundane world of commercial and related scientific development and the spirit of war.

Thus, in the Middle East, which many critics say is the incubation theatre for World War III, some two hundred American firms continue to invest in Israel despite the Arab threat to renew the war against the "Zionists." They do this in spite of the official Arab boycott of anything produced inside the Israeli borders. The Dodge division of the Chrysler Company continues to roll out trucks from its assembly plant in Nazareth (which, incidentally, has an Arab mayor who was once a refugee in Lebanon). Motorola, Zenith, Monsanto Chemical, and Ford have important Israeli operations. Neither the threats of boycott in Cairo nor the supposed imminence of war keep these and other American companies from betting on the Middle Eastern future.

It is not idealism that supports the American investment in Israel, although we do have our pro-Israeli businessmen.

The reason most companies prefer to trust their future to the Israeli star is that they find it more profitable than cultivating Arab good-will. Israel, in contrast to the Arab countries, has a modern economy: it assembles automobiles, it has a thriving electronic development, it is pre-eminent in chemical and medical research, the discoveries made in its aircraft parts industry have actually turned the French Mirage into a good military plane, and it has found a market for Dead Sea bromine as a first-rate material for fire-proofing wood. Inasmuch as trade is possible only between countries that have something to sell to each other, Israel is worth cultivating where other Middle Eastern countries are not.

Coming back from the Middle East, Jack R. Carlin, who runs the research products division of Miles Laboratories, Inc., gave this column a good run-down on the reasons his company set up a citric acid plant in Israel. With a market all over Africa and Asia for citric acid, it was good business to locate in Israel because of its central location. But, beyond that, there was the opportunity to make use of the mind products of Israeli scientists, who are among the best in the world in such departments as molecular biology.

Although Israel is an embattled nation, it leaves its scientists alone: there is no pressure on them to do commercial or military work. Paradoxically, however, the basic research of Israeli scientists has resulted in some 900 products which Miles Laboratories, Inc., finds saleable throughout the world. The Israelis have pioneered the use of isotopes in tracing sources of water, for example, and they have made great advances in the molecular biology that deals with the so-called "building blocks" of genetics.

If the Arab world is ever to recover from the sluggishness that resulted from the long period of subjugation by the Turks ("where the Turk sets foot, the grass never grows"), it will have to make peace with Israeli technologists and agricultural scientists. Even as things stand at present, there are a thousand leaks in the Arab boycott of Israel. The bridges across the Jordan never seem to get shelled although border incidents are a dime a dozen; while the guerilla raids and the retaliation go on, trucks carrying goods to and from Israel continue their commercial way. And the Hilton, Sheraton, and Holiday Inn Hotel chains operate both in Israel and in Arab lands without visible discrimination.

Commerce thus undermines the spirit of revenge, and the future has become a race between the technicians who dominate modern business and the Nassers who continue to talk war.

Malaysia Reported Calmer After 5 Days Of Rioting

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Tension eased here today after five days of arson, murder and looting. People crowded streets to purchase essential food during relaxed curfew hours.

There were reports looting was increasing in downtown homes evacuated by 5,000 people at the height of the trouble. Some reports said Malay troops were taking part in looting.

Authorities said 132 persons had been killed in the capital and four persons in other parts of the country, but unofficial medical sources said at least 300 bodies had been counted in morgues and hospitals.

At least 342 persons have been injured and 2,768 arrested, including many for violating the curfew.

Some 140 buildings were burned and 109 vehicles damaged. Two fires were visible from downtown today.

Throughout the capital vigilante groups were organizing to guard shops and homes.

Some 3,000 Chinese refugees housed at the Merdeka Stadium organized themselves into teams to distribute food and keep guard. Children were being washed assembly line style.

The picture was vastly different at the Chinwood Auditorium where about 1,000 Malays refugees were housed. The smell of rotting food was in the air, and the people lay about lethargically.

A Red Cross worker warned that unless action was taken soon to clear up the mess there was a real danger of typhus.

The new emergency government consisting of the National Operations Council headed by Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak met at the downtown Parliament House.

Razak announced the arrest of 60 "hard core Communists" Saturday night and the arrest Friday of "90 hard core Communists and their supporters in hiding."

Cleveland May Lose Orchestra

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Officials of the Musical Arts Association, parent organization of the Cleveland Orchestra, say the orchestra may face death next year unless the 1969-70 season is better financially than past seasons have been.

They said Sunday that deficits in the past two years required the orchestra to draw $12 million from the capital of its discretionary endowment fund.

Frank E. Joseph, association chairman, and Alfred M. Rankin, president, said that if the deficit in the 1969-70 fiscal year remains in the same range of $500,000 to $600,000, this endowment fund will be wiped out and the orchestra may have to disband or face bankruptcy.

STABBED BY WIFE — James Roosevelt (above), 62, son of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was stabbed and critically wounded by his wife as he strolled near his villa in a suburb of Geneva, Switzerland, according to police. He was reported out of danger following emergency treatment at a hospital. Mrs. Roosevelt, 52, the former Gladys Irene Owens, was taken to a clinic for observation. She is his third wife. No Vietnam Under Ike, Speaker Says

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — A long-time assistant to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower told graduating seniors at Defiance College Sunday that if Eisenhower had been elected to a third term "the Vietnam War would not have come about."

Dr. Kevin McCann, former Defiance president, said that even if the Vietnam War had been thrust on Eisenhower during a third term the United States, after five years, "would not still be bogged down in it."

"Three years ago," said McCann, "conscientious men thought we had ample excuse to withdraw our armed forces; and I feel sure we could have without hurt to our security, our world leadership, our national conscience."

He also said in his address: "By ourselves alone, in the impact and weight of our presence, we have disrupted a stable fruitful economy. Together with those we fight, we have brought something very like ruin to an ancient culture."

"In alliance with the South Vietnamese and their neighbors, we have invested too much gallantry and blood and human sacrifice now blithely to say: 'We goofed; let's go home; this is not our ball game.'"

Find Plane; 4 Are Dead

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. (AP) — The twisted wreckage of a light plane carrying four Ohioans from Columbus, Ohio, was found Saturday by a search party combing rugged Blue Ridge Mountain country of western North Carolina.

Authorities said there were no survivors. A ground search party hampered by bad weather earlier, moved onto Blue Rock Mountain Saturday after a resident of the area—W. B. Gregory—reported he had heard what sounded like the crash of an airplane.

The dead were listed as Robert House, 41, of Worthington, the plane's pilot—and three executives of the Accurate Litho, Inc., a Columbus printing firm—Larry Schenk, 33, the firm's president; John Horn, vice president, and William J. Hamilton, supervisor of the plant.

Malaysia Reported Calmer After 5 Days Of Rioting

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Tension eased here today after five days of arson, murder and looting. People crowded streets to purchase essential food during relaxed curfew hours.

There were reports looting was increasing in downtown homes evacuated by 5,000 people at the height of the trouble. Some reports said Malay troops were taking part in looting.

Authorities said 132 persons had been killed in the capital and four persons in other parts of the country, but unofficial medical sources said at least 300 bodies had been counted in morgues and hospitals.

At least 342 persons have been injured and 2,768 arrested, including many for violating the curfew.

Some 140 buildings were burned and 109 vehicles damaged. Two fires were visible from downtown today.

Throughout the capital vigilante groups were organizing to guard shops and homes.

Some 3,000 Chinese refugees housed at the Merdeka Stadium organized themselves into teams to distribute food and keep guard. Children were being washed assembly line style.

The picture was vastly different at the Chinwood Auditorium where about 1,000 Malays refugees were housed. The smell of rotting food was in the air, and the people lay about lethargically.

A Red Cross worker warned that unless action was taken soon to clear up the mess there was a real danger of typhus.

The new emergency government consisting of the National Operations Council headed by Deputy Prime Minister Abdul Razak met at the downtown Parliament House.

Razak announced the arrest of 60 "hard core Communists" Saturday night and the arrest Friday of "90 hard core Communists and their supporters in hiding."

Cleveland May Lose Orchestra

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Officials of the Musical Arts Association, parent organization of the Cleveland Orchestra, say the orchestra may face death next year unless the 1969-70 season is better financially than past seasons have been.

They said Sunday that deficits in the past two years required the orchestra to draw $1.2 million from the capital of its discretionary endowment fund.

Frank E. Joseph, association chairman, and Alfred M. Rankin, president, said that if the deficit in the 1969-70 fiscal year remains in the same range of $500,000 to $600,000, this endowment fund will be wiped out and the orchestra may have to disband or face bankruptcy.

No Vietnam Under Ike, Speaker Says

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — A long-time assistant to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower told graduating seniors at Defiance College Sunday that if Eisenhower had been elected to a third term "the Vietnam War would not have come about."

Dr. Kevin McCann, former Defiance president, said that even if the Vietnam War had been thrust on Eisenhower during a third term the United States, after five years, "would not still be bogged down in it."

"Three years ago," said McCann, "conscientious men thought we had ample excuse to withdraw our armed forces; and I feel sure we could have without hurt to our security, our world leadership, our national conscience."

He also said in his address: "By ourselves alone, in the impact and weight of our presence, we have disrupted a stable fruitful economy. Together with those we fight, we have brought something very like ruin to an ancient culture."

"In alliance with the South Vietnamese and their neighbors, we have invested too much gallantry and blood and human sacrifice now blithely to say: 'We goofed; let's go home; this is not our ball game.'"

Air Force Base, Ga., said House reported trouble with his manifold systems and instruments about 4 p.m. Friday. No further word was heard.

STABBED BY WIFE—James Roosevelt (above), 62, son of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was stabbed and critically wounded by his wife as he strolled near his villa in a suburb of Geneva, Switzerland, according to police. He was reported to withdraw our armed forces; and I feel sure we could have without hurt to our security, our world leadership, our national conscience.

Eject Negroes From Church At Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Three Negro militants were ejected from the Sacred Heart Church in Dayton Sunday after they disrupted services and attempted to read a "Black Manifesto"—a document seeking $500 million from churches and synagogues for reparations to Negroes.

Black manifesto contingents also disrupted services at three other city churches and a synagogue, but with less serious consequences.

The other institutions were the Grace Methodist Church, the Christ Episcopal Church, St. John's United Church of Christ, and the Beth Abraham Synagogue.

Police escorted three blacks from the Sacred Heart Church after one began reading the manifesto to the congregation over the objections of the priest.

The three were not arrested but church officials said they would bring charges against them.

The Grace Methodist Church offered a different type of resistance.

According to the Rev. N. C. McPherson, senior minister, two men and two women walked into the church as he was reading the pastoral prayer.

"Our ushers," said the Rev. Mr. McPherson, "had been instructed to welcome them and bring them down to the front and offer them a seat if they came."

DON AP BIA, Vietnam (AP)—The paratroopers came down from the mountain, their shirts dark green with sweat, their weapons gone, their bandages stained brown and red. With mud and blood.

Many cursed Lt. Col. Weldon Honeycutt, the hard-nosed battalion commander who sent three companies Sunday to take this 3,000-foot mountain just over a mile east of Laos and overlooking the shell-pocked A Shau Valley.

They failed and they suffered. At least 10 died on the hill.

Honeycutt, 38, of Columbus, Ga., had been given an order: Take the mountain. It had been steadily pounded since May 10 by artillery, riot gas and more than 70 air strikes. It is believed to contain a North Vietnamese regimental headquarters and a supply cache.

By Sunday, the mountaintop was almost bare, its heavy jungle cover blasted apart by artillery, rockets, bombs and napalm. But still visible were the bunkers. They looked like evenly-spaced shell depressions.

U.S. intelligence said Sunday morning the mountain was held by "two companies, plus."

In the afternoon, Honeycutt revised it upwards to two battalions that had infiltrated and reinforced the mountain stronghold Saturday night.

Since May 13 his battalion had suffered heavy casualties assaulting Dong AP Bia—about 35 killed and some 180 wounded seriously enough to be evacuated.

As of Sunday, the mountain had been ground-assaulted 10 times by the 3rd Battalion, 187th Infantry.

The paratroopers had made it to the top three times, and three times intense enemy fire drove them back.

Spec. 4 Anthony Toll, 20, of Nashville, Ind., had made nine of those assaults against Dong AP Bia, and the dark-haired, slender veteran of eight months in Vietnam was bitter.

"After all these air and artillery strikes, those gooks are still in there fighting. All of us are wondering why they just can't pull back and B52 that hill," he said.

"I've lost a lot of buddies up there. Not many guys can take it much longer."

Why take the hill?

Historical Unit Hears Bill Arter

The second quarterly meeting of the Pickaway Historical Society was held Thursday evening in the recently completed meeting room of the Clarke - May House, W. Union St.

All areas of the Clarke-May house that have been renovated were open to the members and guests present.

The speaker for the meeting was Bill Arter, well-known artist-writer of Columbus Vignettes. He labeled himself an ex-officio of old houses, which had its beginning in Old Washington, Ohio.

He delighted his audience with stories, often hidden, about homes he has visited and preserved by way of water color. No house, according to the speaker, is interesting unless its past is interesting. To find that something requires research. And, research precedes the actual sketch.

Soviet Navy Missile Tests Worry British

LONDON (AP)—A London newspaper says the Soviet Union has developed a system for launching missiles from Russian ships and directing them toward enemy ships through the use of spy satellites and reconnaissance planes.

Its existence has been known to naval intelligence for many months," the Daily Express said in a front-page story today, "but its performance in recent sea trials has seriously perturbed them."

The report by defense correspondent Chapman Pincher said satellites detect enemy vessels and pass the information to the planes which identify them. The planes then alert Soviet warships, which launch missiles toward the target.

"In the next stage," the report said, "the planes take up the guidance and direct the missiles by radar until they can lock on to the enemy with their built-in homing mechanism."

Missiles with an effective range of more than 100 miles have already been installed on Krynyn and Kilden class destroyers and more advanced missiles now being fitted can be fired nearly 300 miles, Pincher wrote.

He said the new system will leave the Royal Navy's warships virtually defenseless against Russian missiles if Britain goes through with its plans to scrap aircraft carriers within two years because the warships "will be reduced to relying on guns for protection."

"Well, for one thing, it overlooks a good deal of the A Shau Valley," said Honeycutt. "For another, you pull back and Charlie sure as hell will follow you right down and hit you."

Why do the North Vietnamese defend it so strongly?

"I can't say for sure. I wish I could," said the division commander Maj. Gen. Melvin Zais. He said one option open to him was to back off and "bring in more firepower."

"But you hate to give up the ground you've gained," he added. "You'll have to fight just as hard to retake it. Backing off is one thing that commanders hate to do."

What about a massive B52 strike on Dong AP Bia?

"They build their bunkers to withstand that. That's what they've done out there."

And possibly for that reason—to root out the enemy—the men of Honeycutt's battalion were sent up Sunday for their 10th assault against enemy bunkers, claymore mines, rocket-propelled grenades and a hail of bullets.

Laird Calls Off Workers For ABM Net

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Chief Melvin R. Laird, the ramrod in President Nixon's drive for the Safeguard missile defense system, has cautioned other administration officials to hold off for the time being efforts to line up congressional support for the program.

A confidential administration poll shows 44 senators now favoring deployment of the Safeguard, while 46 are opposed and 10 uncommitted.

Although lagging in the polls—a separate survey by the Associated Press showed the anti-Safeguard strength at 48, with 46 favoring the administration and six uncommitted—Laird is confident of ultimate success.

He is counting on Nixon to apply pressure on the undecided and some GOP senators now listed as Safeguard opponents to bring the count around.

But with the crucial Senate vote not expected until next month, Laird obviously doesn't want to take the edge of presidential persuasive efforts with premature pressure applied by other officials.

A leading Safeguard opponent, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, declined to estimate how many votes are now lined up against the system. But he said his forces would be ready for a showdown next month.

Minister Gets Poetic Praise From 'Phantom'

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—As the Rev. Raymond I. Lindquist delivered his sermon Sunday at Hollywood Presbyterian Church, he suddenly stopped talking and picked a piece of notepaper off a fishing line dangling from the balcony.

On the note was a poem about Dr. Lindquist, saying he preaches "with a charm that you couldn't resist."

It was signed "the phantom fisherman."

"It's the first time in 15½ years of preaching here that I've received a message on a fishing line," the minister commented.

"Damn it, Cyclone Six, get those men spread out. They're all clustered up. You're getting paid to fight this war, not discuss it," Honeycutt snapped over the radio at one company commander working his men up a ridge line.

Honeycutt was standing in a small clearing about 1,000 yards and slightly below Dong AP Bia's scarred crest. Small arms fire crackled continuously, punctuated by artillery shells and the buzzsaw of minigun fire from helicopter gunships.

F100 Supersabre Jets and two Vietnamese prop-driven Sky-raid-ers bombed and strafed the mountain.

"We're running low on ammo," a company commander radioed down from the hill. "We're not making much headway."

Later, the wounded began trickling back from one side of the hill in twos and threes. One boy had his face two thirds covered by a bandage and blood ran off from his chin.

Another staggered in, his shirt off and a bloody bandage on his shoulder.

Then, as it always does during the afternoon in the A Shau Valley, a hard rain began to fall. The rain nearly shut down a hastily built helicopter landing zone on a ridge about midway down the mountain.

100 Attend Final Concert Of Boys Choir

Over one hundred persons attended the final concert of the Circleville All-City Choir yesterday afternoon at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

The choir performed numbers learned throughout the first year of the organization. The program lasted one hour and consisted of five groups of varied songs.

Included in the program were songs of the church, folk songs, Broadway melodies, and a final section consisting of patriotic numbers.

Before the final selection the director, Paul M. Dunkle, presented awards to each boy for his one year service to the group. The awards were pins of a treble clef with the word choir across the front. Next the director presented a trophy which was donated by an anonymous donor to the most outstanding choir boy of the year. Receiving the award this first year was Allen Dray who sings in the alto section of the choir.

Consideration for the award included the musicality of the boy, contribution to the organization, interest, participation in rehearsals, behavior, and attendance at rehearsals and performances.

There are currently several million members of the Jaycees. Asa Elsea (right) presents certificate of Senate membership.

And as usual, Crazy Rairdon showed up. Warrant Officer Eric M. Rairdon, 20, of Seattle, Wash., emerged from zero zero visibility in his OH-1 light observation helicopter. The men called him crazy because he flew in this weather. They called him a saint because he saved lives doing it.

Rairdon, who on Saturday received a Silver Star for this kind of work, began shuttling the wounded one and two at a time, from the landing zone to a larger one near Honeycutt's command post.

When the rain eased, and the low-lying gray afternoon clouds blew away, at least 40 men were awaiting evacuation. Some moaned. Most just sat shivering under ponchos and said nothing.

The evacuation helicopter came in, just one at first and then after about a 20-minute delay, one right after the other. They were too late for one medic with eight bullet holes in him.

Rhodes Dedicates New Camp Area

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes dedicated the new Turkey Creek Camp Area in the 664-acre Roosevelt-Shawnee State Park five miles southwest of here Saturday. The area has 107 new Class A camp sites.

"The rapidly growing popularity of camping as an excellent form of family outdoor recreation is being provided for by Ohio's expanding facilities such as these," the governor told the dedication crowd.

The dedication was part of the fourth annual Portsmouth Trout Derby, sponsored by the Portsmouth Area Chamber of Commerce.

Such Pile Relief She Can't Describe Says Mrs. H. Williams
Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases
Louisville, Ky. Mrs. Hugh Williams of Louisville writes: "A good person recommended Preparation H to me and such help I can't describe. I don't know what in the world I'd do without it!" (Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

"Damn it, Cyclone Six, get those men spread out. They're all clustered up. You're getting paid to fight this war, not discuss it," Honeycutt snapped over the radio at one company commander working his men up a ridge line.

Honeycutt was standing in a small clearing about 1,000 yards and slightly below Don AP Bia's scarred crest. Small arms fire crackled continuously, punctuated by artillery shells and the buzzsaw of minigun fire from helicopter gunships.

F100 Supersabre Jets and two Vietnamese prop-driven Sky-raidiers bombed and strafed the mountain.

"We're running low on ammo," a company commander radioed down from the hill. "We're not making much headway."

Later, the wounded began trickling back from one side of the hill in twos and threes. One boy had his face two thirds covered by a bandage and blood ran off from his chin.

Another staggered in, his shirt off and a bloody bandage on his shoulder.

Then, as it always does during the afternoon in the A Shau Valley, a hard rain began to fall. The rain nearly shut down a hastily built helicopter landing zone on a ridge about midway down the mountain.

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes dedicated the new Turkey Creek Camp Area in the 664-acre Roosevelt-Shawnee State Park five miles southwest of here Saturday. The area has 107 new Class A camp sites.

"The rapidly growing popularity of camping as an excellent form of family outdoor recreation is being provided for by Ohio's expanding facilities such as these," the governor told the dedication crowd.

The dedication was part of the fourth annual Portsmouth Trout Derby, sponsored by the Portsmouth Area Chamber of Commerce.

Over one hundred persons attended the final concert of the Circleville All-City Choir yesterday afternoon at the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

The choir performed numbers learned throughout the first year of the organization. The program lasted one hour and consisted of five groups of varied songs.

Included in the program were songs of the church, folk songs, Broadway melodies, and a final section consisting of patriotic numbers.

Before the final selection the director, Paul M. Dunkle, presented awards to each boy for his one year service to the group. The awards were pins of a treble clef with the word choir across the front. Next the director presented a trophy which was donated by an anonymous donor to the most outstanding choir boy of the year. Receiving the award this first year was Allen Dray who sings in the alto section of the choir.

Consideration for the award included the musicality of the boy, contribution to the organization, interest, participation in rehearsals, behavior, and attendance at rehearsals and performances.

Majestic Prince May Not Race In Belmont Stakes

A PRINCE — Majestic Prince is a Prince of a fellow. He has won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, but may not race in the Belmont Stakes.

Belmont, in which just eight colts have clinched the Triple Crown—the last one Citation in 1948.

A record Preakness crowd of 43,259 thrilled to the stretch duel between Majestic Prince and Arts and Letters, almost a carbon copy of their Derby battle, then waited out the foul claims.

Braulio Baeza, who rode the runner-up from Paul Mellon's Rokeby Stable, contended they lost ground on the first turn when they were bothered by Bill Hartack and Majestic Prince.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Belmont Stakes still is to be run, but when the final jewel is added to racing's Triple Crown on June 7 it will not sparkle as brightly as was expected—Majestic Prince will not be there.

Trainer Johnny Longden says the Prince, with the shot at becoming a Triple Crown king, will not run in the Belmont.

Owner Frank McMahon also says so—but with less conviction.

For a time Saturday it appeared that once again no one would get a shot at the Triple Crown. A foul was claimed against McMahon's unbeaten colt after he finished first in the $182,000 Preakness, but the stewards disallowed it after deliberating for 26 tension-building minutes.

"Boys, I'm taking him home," was the bombshell Longden dropped on newsmen when they appeared at his barn on the Pimlico backstretch Sunday morning to reshuffle Majestic Prince's head victory over Arts and Letters, who he beat by a neck in the Kentucky Derby.

McMahon, contacted before he left Baltimore, at first said he had reached no decision but later he told The Associated Press by telephone from his home in Florida:

"I am pretty well convinced we are not going to run him. We are awfully close to not going. He is not sick; his condition is fine. He's just lost weight because of the campaign (seven wins this year added to two in 1968)."

Longden also said the power-running chestnut's condition had nothing to do with his wanting to ship to his farm at Riverside, Calif., and return Majestic Prince to the races in late summer or fall. Then he said:

"I've checked back and I can't find any horse that had a tough race in the Derby or Preakness that came out of the Belmont and amounted to a damn. I mean they never run back to their top form."

"Count Fleet was one of them. He was sound when he went into the Belmont. He never raced again after the Belmont."

Count Fleet, who won the Triple Crown in 1935, was ridden by Johnny Longden.

No previous winner of the Derby and Preakness has ever withheld voluntarily from the

Yanks Beat California, 6-0

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the kind of slump Joe Pepitone has been in.

The New York first baseman blasted game-winning home runs in both ends of the Yankees' 3-1, 1-0 doubleheader sweep over California Sunday. He had four hits in the twinbill and six in his last eight swings over the weekend.

The spree raised his batting average to .254.

The shrunken average is the result of a 2-for-39 slump which had saddled Pepitone until the Angels pulled him out of it.

"During my slump I wasn't even hitting the fast ball down the middle," said Pepitone, "and that's my pitch. I had two cheapie singles and I didn't even hit the ball hard once."

Against the Angels, he hit it hard twice.

His three-run shot in the seventh inning of the opener gave Mel Stottlemyre his sixth victory of the year. In the nightcap, Pepi broke up a scoreless game with his 11th homer on reliever Hoyt Wilhelm's first pitch in the bottom of the ninth.

In other American League games Sunday, Baltimore shut out Kansas City 5-0, Detroit rapped Minnesota 8-2, Seattle pounded Boston 9-6 and Washington won a pair from Chicago, both 3-2, Oakland at Cleveland was rained out.

Despite his surge, Pepitone still isn't sure he's out of the doldrums for good.

"I still don't feel comfortable. I can't find the right stance," he said. "I don't have my timing. I'm overstriding and out in front of the pitch."

But with all those woes, Pepi still admitted: "This was the best day in my career. That really feels good."

Pepitone's first game jolt turned around a 1-0 California lead and came after Bobby

Houston Astros 'Given' 6-5 Win By Cubs' Regan

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer

Relief was just a swallow away for the Chicago Cubs—but Phil Regan's aspirin tablets went down the wrong pipe.

Regan walked pinch hitter Julio Gotay with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning Sunday, handing the Houston Astros a 6-5 victory over the Cubs.

The Chicago bullpen ace, beaten for the first time in six decisions, almost pitched out of a bases-loaded, none-out bind before forcing home the winning run with his third walk in the inning.

Regan's surprising control lapse was the lowpoint of a frustrating afternoon for National League relief pitchers, who failed in three other rescue operations.

Pittsburgh's Pedro Ramos and Bob Moose blew a ninth-inning lead at Los Angeles, where Len Gabrielson's pinch homer and Wes Parker's two-out bases-loaded single gave the Dodgers a 6-5 nod.

San Francisco's Bob Bolin relived two Philadelphia batters in the ninth, then yielded a single by Dave Watkins and a run-scoring double by Larry Hise that beat the Giants 9-8.

Atlanta bombed Montreal 8-3 in a rain-shortened game, scoring four wrap-up runs in the seventh when Felix Millan, Hank Aaron and Clete Boyer rocked veteran reliever Elroy Face with homers.

St. Louis' Ron Willis and Gary Waslewski proved the exceptions, working out of late-inning trouble to protect Dave Giusti's 6-5 victory over San Diego.

Rain washed out the New York Mets-Cincinnati game—and four perfect innings pitched by Reds' left-hander Jim Merritt.

Ted Abernathy, Regan's chief crony in the Cubs' bullpen, took a 5-3 lead into the seventh inning at Houston, but errors by third baseman Ron Santo and right fielder Al Spangler helped the Astros push over one run.

Regan came to the rescue with none out and runners on second and third, got two quick outs and then was victimized by Santo's second error, which allowed the tying run to score.

In the eighth, he walked Curt Blefary, was tagged for a single by Denis Menke and walked Doug Rader, jamming the bases with nobody out. He retired Jesus Alou on a pop up and got Johnny Edwards to tap into a force at the plate, but then lost Gotay, who was batting for pitcher Jim Ray.

Despite the loss, the first place Cubs remained six games ahead of the sinking Pirates in the NL's East Division race.

The Pirates erased a 4-2 deficit when Willie Stargell's double launched a two-run eighth-inning rally, then shot in front 5-4 on Stargell's run-scoring double in the top of the ninth.

Ramos, who had come on in the seventh and set down six batters in succession, got another to start the ninth. But Gabrielson poled his first homer of the season and when Willie Crawford followed with a double, Moose was called in from the bullpen.

He got Ted Sizemore to ground out as Crawford moved to third, and walked Willie Davis intentionally. Davis took second without a throw and Andy Kosco drew another walk to fill the bases. Parker then delivered the winning run with a single to right, extending the Pirates' losing streak to five games.

Hise's fourth hit in five trips pinned the loss on Bolin and the Giants after the Phillies raked Juan Marichal for 12 hits and seven runs in the 6-1-3 innings he worked. Richie Allen, John Callison and Mike Ryan all homered off Marichal. Bob Burda socked a three-run pinch homer for the Giants.

Face came in to pitch at the start of the seventh with the Expos trailing 4-3 and was greeted by Millan's fourth homer. One out later, Hank Aaron banged his eighth homer—and the 518th of his career. Then, with two out, Tommie Aaron doubled and Boyer slugged his fifth homer, putting the game out of reach.

It was called with the Braves batting in the eighth after a 47-minute rain delay.

Ron Reed, 5-1, went the distance for the Braves, who lost outfielder Rico Carty, with a dislocated right shoulder, and first baseman Tito Francona, with a dislocated right thumb.

Willis choked off a three-run San Diego rally in the eighth inning and Waslewski came on to get the last out in the ninth, stranding two base-runners and saving Giusti's third victory in seven decisions.

Lou Brock cracked three singles, drove in one run and scored another and stole his 12th base to pace the Cards' 12-hit attack.

Dickinson Wins Colonial After Player Bogeys 16

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Because a friend—he wasn't identified—reneged on a business deal, Gardner Dickinson finally achieved his lifelong goal in golf, a victory in the Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

"I was playing real bad early this year," the gaunt, 41-year-old veteran recalled Sunday after charging in with a 66 for his first victory in 15 tries in this prestigious event.

"And I have this friend who had offered me a job in a business where I could make a lot of money. He told me that when I was ready to quit the tour to let him know."

"So I told him I was ready," Dickinson said, then paused.

"Well, he wasn't ready. If he had been, I wouldn't be here today. I guess I've got him to thank for this $25,000."

The little guy, he weighs only 131, used a rebound putting touch, some advice from Ben Hogan and steel-wire nerves to capture the event.

"There are other tournaments where you can make more money," he said. "Bigger prizes than $25,000. And winning the Masters, the Open, the PGA, those all can make you money."

"But I always wanted to win this tournament. Maybe it's because this course has eaten me up. But it was Dickinson who dominated the course in the final round, gunning his irons to the small greens on the 7,175 yard, par 70 Colonial Country Club course with rifle accuracy and finishing at 278, two under par.

He had five birdies, with only one putt longer than 15 feet. That was a 25-footer on No. 5, when he got back even with par after a bogey on No. 2, where he buried a ball in a trap.

He put a five iron on the 10th, getting within six feet and breaking out of a four-way tie for the lead with another bird.

An eight iron put him eight feet from the cup on 12 and he holed it, but the tournament was decided on No. 16.

South African Gary Player had rammed in birdie putts of 20 and 30 feet on Nos. 13 and 14 and moved into a share of the top spot. Dickinson was first through 16, and coaxed in a 12-foot putt he said "looked like three miles."

Moments later Player bogeyed the hole from a trap. Dickinson had a two-stroke lead and it was all over. Player birdied the last hole for a 69 and second place at 279. Don January had a final round 70 for third at 280, while Jack Nicklaus, with a last round 71, and New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles, with a 68, tied for fourth at 282.

Westfall Wins Southeastern Invitational Tournament

Westfall won the Southeastern Invitational baseball tournament Saturday, defeating Chillicothe Reserves, 7-6, in the first game and the host school, 10-0, in the tournament finals.

Greg Bigam was the winning pitcher in both games. Tony Lightle started the first game, and he was relieved after three innings by Bigam.

Lightle walked one and fanned two. Bigam walked three and whiffed two in the final two innings. Chillicothe's six runs came on eight hits.

Westfall scored three runs in the second inning and four in the fourth. Lightle was two for two at the plate and drove in two runs. Bigam had one hit and drove in two runs. John Furniss hit safely in three official trips to the plate and drove in one run.

IN the second game, Bigam went all the way. He allowed only three hits, walked four and fanned three.

The Mustangs scored two runs in every inning but the fifth.

Pat Whaley banged out three hits in four trips to the plate, drove in three runs and had three stolen bases. John Furniss' triple was the longest hit of the game.

Gene Carrey was two for four at the plate and drove in two runs.

PCC Is 2nd In SCOGA

Washington Wins 1st Annual Tourney

A team from Pickaway Country Club placed second in the South Central Ohio Golf Assn. tournament at Washington Country Club Sunday.

Washington won the event with a team total of 635. Circleville shot a 663, Snow Hill of Wilmington was third with a 664 total and Hillsboro was fourth with a 705.

Phil Alkire of Washington was medalist for the day with a 74. Gary Vance of Wilmington was second low scorer with a 76. Brent Bell was third with a 77 and Steve Helwagen was fourth with a 78.

The latter two are members of the Pickaway Country Club team. Other members of the PCC team were Tom Bivens, Knittel and the heat races were taken by Jim Luebber of Cincinnati and Al Hubbard of South Point.

Luebber, just back from South Africa after leading an American team in races against Australia, New Zealand and Australia, had to drop out of the feature at the start because of a broken brake line. He has been driving USAC and the California Racing Association and made his only other appearance at Atomic five years ago.

Dick French of Chillicothe, driving last year's championship car, captured the second hobby stocks heat and Herb Malone of Jackson won the consolation.

Baltimore Orioles Carefree, Loose

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Things haven't been so relaxed in the Baltimore Orioles' dressing room since they swept four straight from the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1966 World Series.

Jim Lanman Repeats At Atomic Track

CHILLICOTHE — For the second time this year another veteran driver at Atomic Speedway ended long winless strings to come back to take the feature Saturday night.

For his first main event victory at Atomic since the early part of the 1967 season, Sam Erwin of Portsmouth squeezed by Junior Smalley of Waverly on the 20th lap of the 25-lapper. Moving into No. 46 car out of Cincinnati in another of the track's many driver switches this season, Smalley had the lead from the start and held on for second place.

Dean Knittel of Portsmouth edged out Bob Morgan at the finish for third place. Morgan, who was the winner of the opening race of the season, repeated to post the night's fast time and captured the helmet dash for the fastest qualifiers over Knittel and Tucker Nunnery.

Jim Lanman of Circleville repeated in the hobby stocks feature, taking the lead from smoke-screen-laying Paul Covan of Jackson on the 14th lap of the 20-lapper. Covan, the winner of the first heat, recovered after "losing it" on a turn and came back to take second place and George Branscom of Chillicothe was third.

Mishaps slowed both features without injury.

In an attempt to start the main super-modified event Joe Frazier of Chillicothe sailed off the No. 1 turn when his accelerator stuck. The car sailed over a station wagon being loaded along the pit road and smashed in an opening between trailers and cars in the pit parking lot.

Frazier was the winner of the consi, followed by Morgan and Knittel and the heat races were taken by Jim Luebber of Cincinnati and Al Hubbard of South Point.

Reds Finally Find Pitching, But Rain Washes Out Game

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati finally came up with some respectable pitching Sunday after Reds' hurlers were clobbered two straight nights by the New York Mets. Then, rain erased the effort.

"We got a break," Mets Manager Gil Hodges said, after rain forced postponement of the game in the bottom of the fourth inning with the score 3-0 Reds. Jim Merritt had retired all 12 New York batters.

Merritt, winner in his last two starts, shook off the tough luck, saying, "It's just one of those things. I wanted to win of course. I felt good today. Too bad we couldn't have gotten in enough innings to win. I had all my pitches working."

Merritt, 3-2, struck out two men in the four-inning span and allowed only four balls to get out of the infield.

"We're just not paying the preacher," Manager Dave Bristol said. "Merritt had it going today. As a matter of fact, he's been pitching very well lately. Today's play showed that if we get the pitching, we can play."

The Mets downed the Reds 10-9 Friday night and 11-3 Saturday night, totaling 30 hits in shelling Cincinnati pitchers.

Pitching coach Harvey Haddix also had good words for Merritt, obtained from Minnesota in a post-1968 season trade for shortstop Leo Cardenas.

"He didn't have his best stuff, but it was his easiest work. He is a pitcher and he knows what he is doing."

Calling of the game, which has not yet been rescheduled, did not help Pete Rose or Bobby Tolan.

Rose recorded a single and a double in two trips and Tolan eventually scored him both times with a sacrifice fly and single.

The Reds, trying to break a three complete games, was Tom Seaver well. The New York pitcher, who has posted four straight victories including three complete games, was tagged for three runs and five hits.

The game started nearly 1½ hours late and was delayed about an hour before being called.

Before the contest, the "Greatest Reds Ever" team was honored. Selected to the team by a panel of local sports experts were lefthanded pitcher Eppa Rixey, righthander Bucky Walters, Ted Kluszewski at first, Hughie Critz at second, shortstop Roy McMillan, third baseman Heinie Groh, catcher Ernie Lombardi and outfielders Pete Rose, Frank Robinson and Edd Roush.

Roush won a special award for being the greatest individual player.

Robinson of Baltimore and Rose are the only active players on the team. Rixey and Groh are dead.

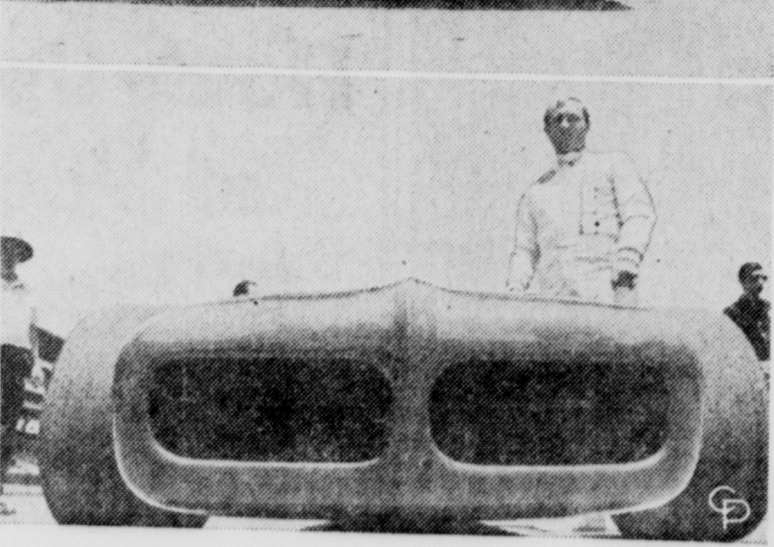

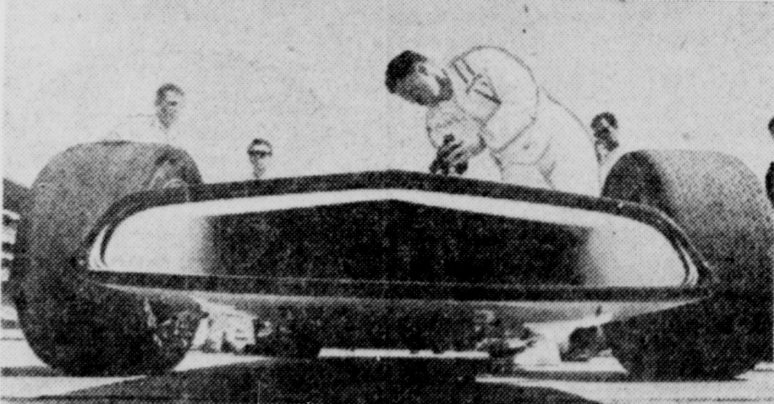

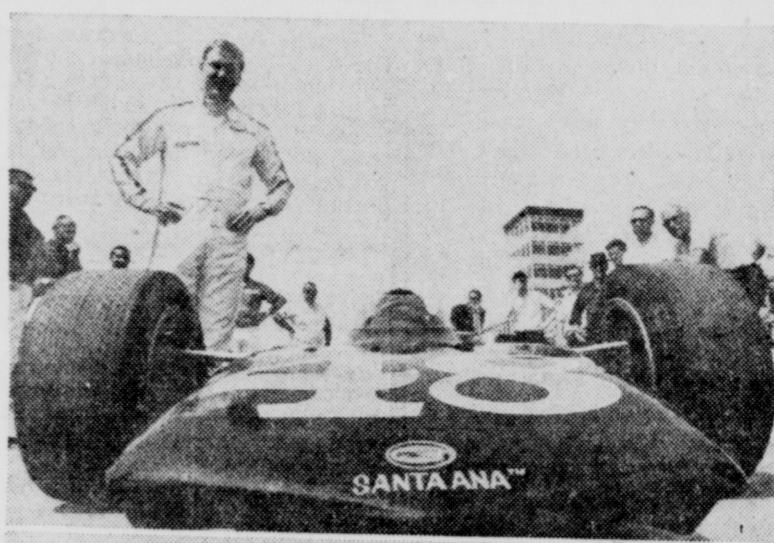

Tonight, the Reds host the Cleveland Indians in an exhibition contest with money going for equipment for the area's knothole baseball players.

Indy Qualifiers Are Rained Out

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The weather finally has caught up with the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

For years, the venerable Speedway activities have taken place without wet weather.

Majestic Prince May Not Race In Belmont Stakes

A PRINCE — Majestic Prince is a Prince of a fellow. He has won the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness, but may not race in the Belmont Stakes.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Belmont Stakes still is to be run, but when the final jewel is added to racing's Triple Crown on June 7 it will not sparkle as brightly as was expected—Majestic Prince will not be there.

Trainer Johnny Longden says the Prince, with the shot at becoming a Triple Crown king, will not run in the Belmont.

Owner Frank McMahon also says so—but with less conviction.

For a time Saturday it appeared that once again no one would get a shot at the Triple Crown. A foul was claimed against McMahon's unbeaten colt after he finished first in the $182,000 Preakness, but the stewards disallowed it after deliberating for 26 tension-building minutes.

"Boys, I'm taking him home," was the bombshell Longden dropped on newsmen when they appeared at his barn on the Pimlico backstretch Sunday morning to rehash Majestic Prince's head victory over Arts and Letters, who he beat by a neck in the Kentucky Derby.

McMahon, contacted before he left Baltimore, at first said he had reached no decision but later he told The Associated Press by telephone from his home in Florida:

"I am pretty well convinced we are not going to run him. We are awfully close to not going. He is not sick; his condition is fine. He's just lost weight because of the campaign (seven wins this year added to two in 1968)."

Longden also said the power-running chestnut's condition had nothing to do with his wanting to ship to his farm at Riverside, Calif., and return Majestic Prince to the races in late summer or fall. Then he said:

"I've checked back and I can't find any horse that had a tough race in the Derby or Preakness that came out of the Belmont and amounted to a damn. I mean they never run back to their top form."

"Count Fleet was one of them. He was sound when he went into the Belmont. He never raced again after the Belmont."

Count Fleet, who won the Triple Crown in 1935, was ridden by Johnny Longden.

No previous winner of the Derby and Preakness has ever withstood voluntarily from the

This is the kind of slump Joe Pepitone has been in.

The New York first baseman blasted game-winning home runs in both ends of the Yankees' 3-1, 1-0 doubleheader sweep over California Sunday. He had four hits in the twinbill and six in his 1st eight swings over the weekend.

The spree raised his batting average to .400.

The shrunken average is the result of a 2-for-39 slump which had saddled Pepitone until the Angels pulled him out of it.

"During my slump I wasn't even hitting the fast ball down the middle," said Pepitone, "and that's my pitch. I had two cheapie singles and I didn't even hit the ball hard once."

Against the Angels, he hit it hard twice.

His three-run shot in the seventh inning of the opener gave Mel Stottlemyre his sixth victory

Belmont, in which just eight colts have clinched the Triple Crown—the last one Citation in 1948.

A record Preakness crowd of 43,259 thrilled to the stretch duel between Majestic Prince and Arts and Letters, almost a carbon copy of their Derby battle, then waited out the foul claims.

Braulio Baeza, who rode the runner-up from Paul Mellon's Rokeby Stable, contended they lost ground on the first turn when they were bothered by Bill Hartack and Majestic Prince.

Reds Finally Find Pitching, But Rain Washes Out Game

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati finally came up with some respectable pitching Sunday after Reds' hurlers were clobbered two straight nights by the New York Mets. Then, rain erased the effort.

"We got a break," Mets Manager Gil Hodges said, after rain forced postponement of the game in the bottom of the fourth inning with the score 3-0 Reds. Jim Merritt had retired all 12 New York batters.

Merritt, winner in his last two starts, shook off the tough luck, saying, "It's just one of those things. I wanted to win of course. I felt good today. Too bad we couldn't have gotten in enough innings to win. I had all my pitches working."

Merritt, 3-2, struck out two men in the four-inning span and allowed only four balls to get out of the infield.

"We're just not paying the pitcher," Manager Dave Bristol said. "Merritt had it going today. As a matter of fact, he's been pitching very well lately. Today's play showed that if we get the pitching, we can play."

The Mets downed the Reds 10-9 Friday night and 11-3 Saturday night, totaling 30 hits in shelling Cincinnati pitchers.

Pitching coach Harvey Haddix also had good words for Merritt, obtained from Minnesota in a post-1968 season trade for shortstop Leo Cardenas.

"He didn't have his best stuff, but it was his easiest work. He is a pitcher and he knows what he is doing."

Calling of the game, which has not yet been rescheduled, did not help Pete Rose or Bobby Tolan.

Rose recorded a single and a double in two trips and Tolan eventually scored him both times with a sacrifice fly and single.

The Reds, trying to break a three complete games, was Tom Seaver well. The New York pitcher, who has posted four straight victories including three complete games, was tagged for three runs and five hits.

The game started nearly 1½ hours late and was delayed about an hour before being called.

Before the contest, the "Greatest Reds Ever" team was honored. Selected to the team by a panel of local sports experts were lefthanded pitcher Eppa Rixey, righthanded Bucky Walters, Ted Kluszewski at first, Hughie Critz at second, shortstop Roy McMillan, third baseman Heinie Groh, catcher Ernie Lombardi and outfielders Pete Rose, Frank Robinson and Edd Roush.

Roush won a special award for being the greatest individual player.

Robinson of Baltimore and Rose are the only active players on the team. Rixey and Groh are dead.

Tonight, the Reds host the Cleveland Indians in an exhibition contest with money going for equipment for the area's knothole baseball players.

Relief was just a swallow away for the Chicago Cubs—but Phil Regan's aspirin tablets went down the wrong pipe.

Regan walked pinch hitter Julio Gotay with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth inning Sunday, handing the Houston Astros a 6-5 victory over the Cubs.

The Chicago bullpen ace, beaten for the first time in six decisions, almost pitched out of a bases-loaded, none-out bind before forcing home the winning run with his third walk in the inning.

Regan's surprising control lapse was the lowpoint of a frustrating afternoon for National League relief pitchers, who failed in three other rescue operations.

Pittsburgh's Pedro Ramos and Bob Moose blew a ninth-inning lead at Los Angeles, where Len Gabrielson's pinch homer and Wes Parker's two-out bases-loaded single gave the Dodgers a 6-5 nod.

San Francisco's Bob Bolin retired two Philadelphia batters in the ninth, then yielded a single by Dave Watkins and a run-scoring double by Larry Hise that beat the Giants 9-8.

Atlanta bombed Montreal 8-3 in a rain-shortened game, scoring four wrapup runs in the seventh when Felix Millan, Hank Aaron and Cleve Boyer rocked veteran reliever Elroy Face with homers.

St. Louis' Ron Willis and Gary Waslewski proved the exceptions, working out of late inning trouble to protect Dave Giusti's 6-5 victory over San Diego.

Rain washed out the New York Mets-Cincinnati game—and four perfect innings pitched by Reds' left-hander Jim Merritt.

Ted Abernathy, Regan's chief crone in the Cubs' bullpen, took a 5-3 lead into the seventh inning at Houston, but errors by third baseman Ron Santo and right fielder Al Spangler helped the Astros push over one run.

Regan came to the rescue with none out and runners on second and third, got two quick outs and then was victimized by Santo's second error, which allowed the tying run to score.

In the eighth, he walked Curt Blefary, was tagged for a single by Denis Menke and walked Doug Rader, jamming the bases with nobody out. He retired Jesus Alou on a pop up and got Johnny Edwards to tap into a force at the plate, but then lost Gotay, who was batting for pitcher Jim Ray.

Despite the loss, the first place Cubs remained six games ahead of the sinking Pirates in the NL's East Division race.

The Pirates erased a 4-2 deficit when Willie Stargell's double launched a two-run eighth-inning rally, then shot in front 5-4 on Stargell's run-scoring double in the top of the ninth.

Ramos, who had come on in the seventh and set down six batters in succession, got another to start the ninth. But Gabrielson poled his first homer of the season and when Willie Crawford followed with a double, Moose was called in from the bullpen.

He got Ted Sizemore to ground out as Crawford moved to third, and walked Willie Davis intentionally. Davis took second without a throw and Andy Kosco drew another walk to fill the bases. Parker then delivered the winning run with a single to right, extending the Pirates' losing streak to five games.

Hise's fourth hit in five trips pinned the loss on Bolin and the Giants after the Phillies raked Juan Marichal for 12 hits and seven runs in the 6-13 innings he worked. Richie Allen, John Callison and Mike Ryan all homered off Marichal. Bob Burda socked a three-run pinch homer for the Giants.

Face came in to pitch at the start of the seventh with the Expos trailing 4-3 and was greeted by Millan's fourth homer. One out later, Hank Aaron banged his eighth homer—and the 518th of his career. Then, with two

Jim Lanman Repeats At Atomic Track

CHILLICOTHE — For the second time this year another veteran driver at Atomic Speedway ended long winless strings to come back to take the feature Saturday night.

For his first main event victory at Atomic since the early part of the 1967 season, Sam Erwin of Portsmouth squeezed by Junior Smalley of Waverly on the 20th lap of the 25-lapper. Moving into No. 46 car out of Cincinnati in another of the track's many driver switches this season, Smalley had the lead from the start and held on for second place.

Dean Knittel of Portsmouth edged out Bob Morgan at the finish for third place. Morgan, who was the winner of the opening race of the season, repeated to post the night's fast time and captured the helmet dash for the fastest qualifiers over Knittel and Tucker Nunnery.

Jim Lanman of Circleville repeated in the hobby stocks feature, taking the lead from smoke-screen-laying Paul Cohan of Jackson on the 14th lap of the 20-lapper. Cohan, the winner of the first heat, recovered after "losing it" on a turn and came back to take second place and George Branscom of Chillicothe was third.

Mishaps slowed both features without injury.

In an attempt to start the main super-modified event Joe Frazier of Chillicothe sailed off the No. 1 turn when his accelerator stuck. The car sailed over a station wagon being loaded along the pit road and smashed in an opening between trailers and cars in the pit parking lot.

Frazier was the winner of the consti, followed by Morgan and Knittel and the heat races were taken by Jim Luebbert of Cincinnati and Al Nunnery of South Point.

Luebbert, just back from South Africa after leading an American team in races against South Africa, New Zealand and Australia, had to drop out of the feature at the start because of a broken brake line. He has been driving USAC and the California Racing Association and made his only other appearance at Atomic five years ago.

Driving French of Chillicothe, driving last year's championship car, captured the second hobby stocks heat and Herb Malone of Jackson won the consti.

out, Tommie Aaron doubled and Boyer slugged his fifth homer, putting the game out of reach.

It was called with the Braves batting in the eighth after a 47-minute rain delay.

Ron Reed, 5-1, went the distance for the Braves, who lost outfielder Rico Carty, with a dislocated right shoulder, and first baseman Tito Francona, with a dislocated right thumb. Willis choked off a three-run San Diego rally in the eighth inning and Waslewski came on to get the last out in the ninth, stranding two base-runners and saving Giusti's third victory in seven decisions.

Lou Brock cracked three singles, drove in one run and scored another and stole his 12th base to pace the Cards' 12-hit attack.

Dickinson Wins Colonial After Player Bogeys 16

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Because a friend—he wasn't identified—reneged on a business deal, Gardner Dickinson finally achieved his lifelong goal in golf, a victory in the Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

"I was playing real bad early this year," the gaunt, 41-year-old veteran recalled Sunday after charging in with a 66 for his first victory in 15 tries in this prestigious event.

"And I have this friend who had offered me a job in a business where I could make a lot of money. He told me that when I was ready to quit the tour to let him know."

"So I told him I was ready," Dickinson said, then paused.

"Well, he wasn't ready. If he had been, I wouldn't be here today. I guess I've got him to thank for this $25,000."

The little guy, he weighs only 131, used a rebound putting touch, some advice from Ben Hogan and steel-wire nerves to capture the event.

"There are other tournaments

where you can make more money," he said. "Bigger prizes than $25,000. And winning the Masters, the Open, the PGA, those all can make you money."

"But I always wanted to win this tournament. Maybe it's because this course has eaten me up. But it was Dickinson who dominated the course in the final round, gunning his irons to the small greens on the 7,175 yard, par 70 Colonial Country Club course with rifle accuracy and finishing at 278, two under par.

He had five birdies, with only one putt longer than 15 feet. That was a 25-footer on No. 5, when he got back even with par after a bogey on No. 2, where he buried a ball in a trap.

He put a five iron on the 10th, getting within six feet and breaking out of a four-way tie for the lead with another bird.

An eight iron put him eight feet from the cup on 12 and he holed it, but the tournament was decided on No. 16.

South African Gary Player had rammed in birdie putts of 20 and 30 feet on Nos. 13 and 14 and moved into a share of the top spot. Dickinson was first through 16, and coaxed in a 12-foot putt he said "looked like three miles."

Moments later Player bogeyed the hole from a trap. Dickinson had a two-stroke lead and it was all over. Player birdied the last hole for a 69 and second place at 279. Don January had a final round 70 for third at 280, while Jack Nicklaus, with a last round 71, and New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles, with a 68, tied for fourth at 282.

Auto Racing In U.S. Controlled By 5 Big Organizations

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Auto racing has mushroomed into a booming spectator sport worth millions of dollars, with superstars whose incomes rank with those of baseball, football and golf. The stadiums are among the best and largest in sports. And the end is not yet in sight.

Auto racing is backed by a fanatical following that last year reached 51 million, paying gate prices that ranged from $2 at small Midwest and Southern ovals to $35 for box seats at Indianapolis and Daytona.

It is supported by millions of dollars from the Detroit auto-makers. Sources in a position to know, say car builders and accessory firms poured at least $50 million into auto racing "performance and engineering" budgets last year. The figure will be higher this year.

Work was started in 1968 on three major new speedways, ranging in cost up to $24 million. Financing was through stock or debenture sales and at least part of the money came from Wall Street interests.

How did the sport of speed reach its growing eminence?

Millions of people are devoted to motorsports, says one psychologist, "because they can relate themselves more closely to it than they can to, say, horses. Few people keep horses for pleasure, most people have cars. And cars run."

Andy Granatelli, the veteran Indianapolis car builder and innovator, has another answer:

"Football is fine. Horse racing provides a pleasant afternoon's entertainment. Baseball and basketball are big in their own way. But the latest of America's pure, unpasteurized, two-fisted enterprises is automobile racing."

Auto racing in the U.S. generally is controlled by five big sanctioning bodies, each of which provides a network of facilities, a regular schedule of events, technical guidelines for participants and machines, insurance, promotion and safety supervision.

They are:
—The Sports Car Club of America (SCCA). Despite its recent turn toward professionalism, the SCCA perhaps is closer to the "little people," the backyard "shade tree" racer than any of the other sanctioning groups.

The SCCA's big forte is road racing. It supervises more events than any single organization in the world. With the help of member-volunteers, it will conduct 2,000 separate events this year involving 5,000 specially licensed drivers at 100 sites.

Paid admissions to the SCCA's big events last year totaled 1.2 million. Prize money ran almost $2 million.

The big SCCA events are the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series for unlimited power sports-racing cars, this year pegged at 11 events for $1 million in prize money; the newly created Continental Championship for the comparatively new Formula A open cockpit, single-seater cars built specifically for racing; and the Trans-American series for small sports sedans of the Camaro, Mustang, Cougar, Porsche variety.

Calaveras County Frog Meet Held

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — The jumping frogs of Calaveras County didn't set any records this year, but 64,000 people turned out to watch them leap and bound.

The winner of the International Grand Finals was a leg-spraddler named Rinso, entered by the perennially victorious training tandem of Leonard Hall and Bill Proctor, Lafayette, Calif.

In 1966, the Hall-Proctor frog set a world record of 19 feet, 3 1/2 inches, which still stands. Their entry also won last year.

Rinso's distance Sunday was 18 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

As with all entries, Rinso was allowed three jumps. His distance was determined by a string stretched from start to finish.

The frog event is part of the Calaveras County Fair and stems from a story written 104 years ago by Mark Twain.

Enter No Plea In Tot's Death; Found In Auto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus teenage couple entered no plea in Municipal Court Saturday to a charge of failing to report the death of their 3-month-old baby to the coroner. Both cases were continued until May 28.

William B. Smith, 19, and his 18-year-old wife Melinda, were held on $10,000 bond each.

Homicide detectives Friday discovered the body of their son, William, stuffed in the spare tire well of their car. The couple told police the baby died April 21 in a fall from the car's back seat during an accident in Erie, Pa., while returning home. They said they did not report the death because they were "afraid."

car racing segment of the sport locked up, backed by heavy Detroit participation and eight "superspeedways" of a mile or more in length either in operation or building. NASCAR sanctioned 1,065 events for stock cars last year and paid $3,643,473 in prize money. The elite Grand National Division, for late model, big bore sedans, ran 49 races. Purses ranged from a minimum of $5,100 at small 100 miles to $190,000 paid at the Daytona 500. From these, individual winners were paid anywhere from $1,000 for a small track victory to $40,000 at Daytona.

—USAC, based at Indianapolis with the Memorial Day 500 as its showcase production, sanctions races for championship (Indy-type) and stock cars, sprint cars and midget cars.

The Indianapolis race, of course, is USAC's bread-and-butter. It is one of the great sporting events of the world, if only for its magnificent blood-tinting start when 33 cars, closely bunched, scramble for the first turn at better than two miles a minute. At least 225,000 saw it last year.

USAC's "championship trail" includes a series of 18-20 races, some on road courses, others of

Rivers Raps Criticism By Colleague

WASHINGTON (AP) — L. Mendel Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has asked Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., to defend his view that some congressmen are soft on military spending waste.

Rivers accused Moorhead in a letter of making the "very serious" charge that members of the committee have "become the handmaidens of the Department of Defense and defense contractors," committee sources said.

The two men talked by telephone Friday, the sources said, and Moorhead agreed to appear before the committee late next week.

Moorhead, a committee member, has hit at cost increases for the C-5A super transport and the F111 fighter-bomber program.

To CBS news, Moorhead said, "I regret to say I think some members of Congress have dealt so long with the military and with defense contractors that they begin to think the military and contractors are without fault and obviously people do make mistakes—there are faults."

Moorhead's television comment was Tuesday night. Rivers wrote his letter Wednesday, the sources said, adding that the South Carolina Democrat considered Moorhead's statements a personal condemnation.

100, 150 and 200 miles on oval tracks. Prize money last year exceeded $3 million in all divisions.

tendence than they are given credit for.

The National Hot Rod Association reported its attendance last year was 4,648,338. The younger American Hot Rod Association estimated its meets drew close to 4 million. Each paid prize money of more than $1 million.

But motor racing isn't wholly under the banner of the big sanctioning groups. There are numerous regional or area groups that operate their own circuits. Among these are the International Motor Contest Association (IMCA), oldest of the nation's sanctioning bodies; the Midwest Auto Racing Club (MARC), the Auto Racing Club of America (ARC), and others devoted exclusively to one of the many segments or types of racing.

In addition, there are hundreds of small tracks and drag strips that operate without sanction, either because they aren't willing to meet the rigid safety or technical requirements of sanctioning groups, or feel they don't need outside supervision.

Each of the big sanctioning groups has connections with Detroit, from whence come the factory-backed racing teams, the engineering know-how, the sophistication and at least a part of the control of the sport.

Each also has its connections in Akron, where two big tire-makers, Goodyear and Firestone, produce thousands of special formula tires, most of them designed for a specific race on a specific track at a specific period of the year.

Both companies for several years have subsidized individual racing teams, in many cases supplying the money to build and develop the car, pay the driver and crew, and keep the operation going during the season. The reward: Seeing the car in the winner's circle and the machine pictured in the center of a full page advertisement in the daily papers the following week.

For the amateur racer, however, no such "goodies" as special tires and special engines are available except at his neighborhood performance center. But in recent years, even Sears, Roebuck & Co. has begun stocking the special equipment for the youngsters.

All he needs is money, and guts of it.

Auto Racing In U.S. Controlled By 5 Big Organizations

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Auto racing has mushroomed into a booming spectator sport worth millions of dollars, with superstars whose incomes rank with those of baseball, football and golf. The stadiums are among the best and largest in sports. And the end is not yet in sight.

Auto racing is backed by a fanatical following that last year reached 51 million, paying gate prices that ranged from $2 at small Midwest and Southern ovals to $35 for box seats at Indianapolis and Daytona.

It is supported by millions of dollars from the Detroit automakers. Sources in a position to know, say car builders and accessory firms poured at least $50 million into auto racing "performance and engineering" budgets last year. The figure will be higher this year.

Work was started in 1968 on three major new speedways, ranging in cost up to $24 million. Financing was through stock or debenture sales and at least part of the money came from Wall Street interests.

How did the sport of speed reach its growing eminence?

Millions of people are devoted to motorsports, says one psychologist, "because they can relate themselves more closely to it than they can to, say, horses. Few people keep horses for pleasure, most people have cars. And cars run."

Andy Granatelli, the veteran Indianapolis car builder and innovator, has another answer:

"Football is fine. Horse racing provides a pleasant afternoon's entertainment. Baseball and basketball are big in their own way. But the latest of America's pure, unpasteurized, two-fisted enterprises is automobile racing."

Auto racing in the U.S. generally is controlled by five big sanctioning bodies, each of which provides a network of facilities, a regular schedule of events, technical guidelines for participants and machines, insurance, promotion and safety supervision.

They are:

—The Sports Car Club of America (SCCA). Despite its recent turn toward professionalism, the SCCA perhaps is closer to the "little people," the backyard "shade tree" racer than any of the other sanctioning groups.

The SCCA's big forte is road racing. It supervises more events than any single organization in the world. With the help of member volunteers, it will conduct 2,000 separate events this year involving 5,000 specially licensed drivers at 100 sites.

Paid admissions to the SCCA's big events last year totaled 1.2 million. Prize money ran almost $2 million.

The big SCCA events are the Canadian-American Challenge up series for unlimited power sports-racing cars, this year pegged at 11 events for $1 million in prize money; the newly created Continental Championship for the comparatively new Formula A open cockpit, single-seater cars built specifically for racing; and the Trans-American series for small sports sedans of the Camaro, Mustang, Cougar, Porsche variety.

Calaveras County Frog Meet Held

ANGELS CAMP, Calif. (AP) — The jumping frogs of Calaveras County didn't set any records this year, but 64,000 people turned out to watch them leap and bound.

The winner of the International Grand Finals was a leg-spraddler named Rinso, entered by the perennially victorious training tandem of Leonard Hall and Bill Proctor, Lafayette, Calif.

In 1966, the Hall-Proctor frog set a world record of 19 feet, 3 3/4 inches, which still stands. Their entry also won last year.

Rinso's distance Sunday was 18 feet, 3 1/2 inches.

As with all entries, Rinso was allowed three jumps. His distance was determined by a string stretched from start to finish.

The frog event is part of the Calaveras County Fair and stems from a story written 104 years ago by Mark Twain.

Enter No Plea In Tot's Death; Found In Auto

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Columbus teenage couple entered no plea in Municipal Court Saturday to a charge of failing to report the death of their 3-month-old baby to the coroner. Both cases were continued until May 28.

William B. Smith, 19, and his 18-year-old wife Melinda, were held on $10,000 bond each.

Homicide detectives Friday discovered the body of their son, William, stuffed in the spare tire well of their car. The couple told police the baby died April 21 in a fall from the car's back seat during an accident in Erie, Pa., while returning home. They said they did not report the death because they were "afraid."

The masked bobwhite made its home in the deep grasses of southern Arizona until overgrazing by cattle eliminated its natural habitat. By 1912, many ornithologists believed the bird to be extinct. It was rediscovered in 1927 in Sonora, Mexico.

car racing segment of the sport locked up, backed by heavy Detroit participation and eight "superspeedways" of a mile or more in length either in operation or building. NASCAR sanctioned 1,065 events for stock cars last year and paid $3,643,473 in prize money. The elite Grand National Division, for late model, big bore sedans, ran 49 races. Purses ranged from a minimum of $5,100 at small 100 milers to $190,000 paid at the Daytona 500. From these, individual winners were paid anywhere from $1,000 for a small track victory to $40,000 at Daytona.

—USAC, based at Indianapolis with the Memorial Day 500 as its showcase production, sanctions races for championship (Indy-type) and stock cars, sprint cars and midget cars.

The Indianapolis race, of course, is USAC's bread-and-butter. It is one of the great sporting events of the world, if only for its magnificent blood-thirsting start when 33 cars, closely bunched, scramble for the first turn at better than two miles a minute. At least 225,000 saw it last year.

USAC's "championship trail" includes a series of 18-20 races, some on road courses, others of

Rivers Raps Criticism By Colleague

WASHINGTON (AP) — L. Mendel Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has asked Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., to defend his view that some congressmen are soft on military spending waste.

Rivers accused Moorhead in a letter of making the "very serious" charge that members of the committee have "become the handmaidens of the Department of Defense and defense contractors," committee sources said.

The two men talked by telephone Friday, the sources said, and Moorhead agreed to appear before the committee late next week.

Moorhead, a committee member, has hit at cost increases for the C5A super transport and the F111 fighter-bomber program.

To CBS news, Moorhead said, "I regret to say I think some members of Congress have dealt so long with the military and with defense contractors that they begin to think the military and contractors are without fault and obviously people do make mistakes—there are faults."

Moorhead's television comment was Tuesday night. Rivers wrote his letter Wednesday, the sources said, adding that the South Carolina Democrat considered Moorhead's statements a personal condemnation.

100, 150 and 200 miles on oval tracks. Prize money last year exceeded $3 million in all divisions.

The hot rod groups, together sanctioning more than 4,000 events on quarter-mile strips, claim they are responsible for a bigger share of motorsports at tendance than they are given credit for.

The National Hot Rod Association reported its attendance last year was 4,648,338. The younger American Hot Rod Association estimated its meets drew close to 4 million. Each paid prize money of more than $1 million.

But motor racing isn't wholly under the banner of the big sanctioning groups. There are numerous regional or area groups that operate their own circuits. Among these are the International Motor Contest Association (IMCA), oldest of the nation's sanctioning bodies; the Midwest Auto Racing Club (MARC), the Auto Racing Club of America (ARC), and others devoted exclusively to one of the many segments or types of racing.

In addition, there are hundreds of small tracks and drag strips that operate without sanction, either because they aren't willing to meet the rigid safety or technical requirements of sanctioning groups, or feel they don't need outside supervision.

Each of the big sanctioning groups has connections with Detroit, from whence come the factory-backed racing teams, the engineering know-how, the sophistication and at least a part of the control of the sport.

Each also has its connections in Akron, where two big tire-makers, Goodyear and Firestone, produce thousands of special formula tires, most of them designed for a specific race on a specific track at a specific period of the year.

Both companies for several years have subsidized individual racing teams, in many cases supplying the money to build and develop the car, pay the driver and crew, and keep the operation going during the season. The reward: Seeing the car in the winner's circle and the machine pictured in the center of a full page advertisement in the daily papers the following week.

For the amateur racer, however, no such "goodies" as special tires and special engines are available except at his neighborhood performance center. But in recent years, even Sears, Roebuck & Co. has begun stocking the special equipment for the youngsters.

All he needs is money, and guts of it.

Tomorrow's story: The personalities of the game.

Goldberg Against Court 'Balance'

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Goldberg, who gave up a Supreme Court seat to become U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, says it is a mistake to reserve a seat on the high court for a Jew.

Bengals-Patriots Game Set Despite Steve Beattie Death

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—In death, as in life, high school football star Steve Beattie will be remembered on the gridiron.

Beattie, quarterback for Bowling Green High School, suffered a severed spinal cord during a football game in September, 1966.

An exhibition game between the Cincinnati Bengals and the Boston Patriots was scheduled here for Aug. 5 to raise funds to pay medical costs for the youth who was paralyzed from the neck down.

But Saturday Steve Beattie died of a kidney ailment.

The Steve Beattie Foundation, which has raised $47,000 to offset some $127,000 in expenses, says the game will be played as planned. Its members will hold a meeting to determine how the ticket money will be spent.

The game will be played at Bowling Green State University and could be the first time a pro event has been played on a state university football field.

After his injury, Beattie spent 21 months in two hospitals, had several operations and was fitted with a specially designed electronic arm.

He learned to operate a battery powered wheel chair by controlling the switches with his tongue.

Last June he came home to live with his parents and had required around-the-clock nursing care to make sure that the apparatus that pumped air into his lungs was constantly working.

A school official said that the cost of nurses, therapy and life-saving equipment comes to $2,500 a month.

Athletic Director Doyt Perry, for whom the 23,200-seat football stadium is named, served as chairman of the Foundation last year. A personal friend of Paul Brown and triots, Perry was instrumental Clive Rush, the respective in bringing the exhibition to coaches of the Bengals and Pa- Bowling Green.

HIS AND HERS, BUT WHICH?—You can't tell which is his and which is hers without seeing the profiles of these models at the Inter-Continental Beauty Show in Los Angeles. Unisex, it's called, which means matching hair styles and clothes. This is the King Edward Page Boy hairdo.

Bengals Ready For Training At Wilmington

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Bengals tentatively plan to open their 1969 training camp at Wilmington for rookies and free agents July 13 and for veterans July 16.

"We're going to have a little more football to offer this year," said Coach-General Manager Paul Brown of the American Football League club.

"Some times last year, my staff and I would argue for hours over the assignment for just one play. This year, it's different. We know what we're doing, what we want, where we're going," Brown continued.

Brown also promised that the Bengals, who finished 3-11 in their first season last year, would have a lot more offense. The team played well enough defensively to win more games last year but could not come up with the big gains and scores when they were needed.

"We're going to be ready," he added.

Cleveland, Cincinnati In Kid Glove Game

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds and Cleveland Indians, both rained out Sunday, will meet there tonight in the 20th Annual Kid Glove Game.

Proceeds of the exhibition contest will go to equipment for area knotholders.

Nearly 30,000 greater Cincinnati youngsters who play knothole baseball have been selling tickets for the game for months. A crowd of about 17,000 watched the game last year between the two same teams.

Bengals-Patriots Game Set Despite Steve Beattie Death

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP)—In death, as in life, high school football star Steve Beattie will be remembered on the gridiron.

Beattie, quarterback for Bowling Green High School, suffered a severed spinal cord during a football game in September, 1966.

An exhibition game between the Cincinnati Bengals and the Boston Patriots was scheduled here for Aug. 5 to raise funds to pay medical costs for the youth who was paralyzed from the neck down.

But Saturday Steve Beattie died of a kidney ailment.

The Steve Beattie Foundation, which has raised $47,000 to offset some $127,000 in expenses, says the game will be played as planned. Its members will hold a meeting to determine how the ticket money will be spent.

The game will be played at Bowling Green State University and could be the first time a pro event has been played on a state university football field.

After his injury, Beattie spent 21 months in two hospitals, had several operations and was fitted with a specially designed electronic arm.

He learned to operate a battery powered wheel chair by controlling the switches with his tongue.

Last June he came home to live with his parents and had required around-the-clock nursing care to make sure that the apparatus that pumped air into his lungs was constantly working.

A school official said that the cost of nurses, therapy and life-saving equipment comes to $2,500 a month.

Athletic Director Doyt Perry, for whom the 23,200-seat football stadium is named, served as chairman of the Foundation last year. A person-

Bengals Ready For Training At Wilmington

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Bengals tentatively plan to open their 1969 training camp at Wilmington for rookies and free agents July 13 and for veterans July 16.

"We're going to have a little more football to offer this year," said Coach-General Manager Paul Brown of the American Football League club.

"Some times last year, my staff and I would argue for hours over the assignment for just one play. This year, it's different. We know what we're doing, what we want, where we're going," Brown continued.

Brown also promised that the Bengals, who finished 3-11 in their first season last year, would have a lot more offense. The team played well enough defensively to win more games last year but could not come up with the big gains and scores when they were needed.

"We're going to be ready," he added.

Lutherans Surprise Pastor Zehner With Birthday Party

HAPPY BIRTHDAY—Trinity Lutheran Church Pastor and Mrs. Carl Zehner share the first piece of birthday cake at the luncheon held Sunday in the Parish House. This celebration came as a complete surprise to the Circleville pastor.

Sunday 10:45 a.m. services at the Trinity Lutheran Church were begun by the congregation singing, "Happy Birthday, dear Pastor".

This was part of the surprise that members of the church had planned to celebrate Pastor Carl Zehner's birthday.

The occasion also recognized Pastor Zehner's 15 years of service to Trinity congregation.

Following the unusual and surprising opening of the service, a guest pastor appeared. He was Dr. Norman A. Menter of Lutheran Theological Seminary in Columbus and a friend of Pastor Zehner. Dr. Menter's subject was "We're so glad you came to be our preacher". He expanded the subject to include, "and also our spiritual leader."

To help complete the birthday celebration members of the congregation contributed to a gift fund and a check for the amount was presented to the Zehners by Harry C. Kern, president of the congregation.

Following the service a buffet-style luncheon was served in the Parish House for the honored guest and members of the congregation.

Pastor Zehner was further surprised at a short program held in the afternoon. Presented by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson, the program used a "This Is Your Life" theme, showing photos of Pastor Zehner and his family from birth to the present.

Catnip Studied On Human Beings

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Two scientists are trying to find out whether catnip really has any hallucinogenic qualities like those of LSD or marijuana.

Armed with 150 pounds of catnip, Drs. Charles L. Winek and Norbert Pilewski plan a six month study during which they'll let cats and rats inhale catnip smoke.

"Nobody really knows why it makes cats act silly or whether it would have a similar effect on adult humans," Winek says.

Winek, the Allegheny County toxicologist, says the idea for the study, comes from a recent rash of catnip smoking by adults.

Violence Hits In Georgia

WAYCROSS, Ga. (AP)—A police patrolman said a young Negro was wounded by a shotgun blast during an exchange of gunfire between whites and Negroes involving about 15 to 20 teenagers.

The incident occurred Sunday night. The youth, John Baker, was in fair condition at a hospital.

Police said the cause of the outbreak was unknown.

In a separate shooting, Willie Cooper, a Negro guard at a church, was wounded in the left leg by shotgun fire from a passing car. Willie Parker, 50, another Negro, was charged with firing the gun.

The Rev. C. E. Wells, pastor of the church, said it was guarded because of bomb threats following a boycott by Negroes of schools and white merchants in a civil rights dispute.

White, S.D. Survives

WHITE, S.D. (AP)—Standing in a curb-to-curb carpet of discarded beer cans and glass on White's main street, the youths made a college try to "drink White dry."

The project turned out to be too big for the town's 600 visitors although they worked hard at it. About 75 youths wanted to keep going after others went home but were told by highway patrolmen: "the party's over."

Most of the students left White Saturday night expressing satisfaction with themselves that they had kept their promise to do their own policing. Outside of "littering," the only observable damage was from three broken windows. Some of the collegians "chipped in" to pay for one of the broken panes.

"We're not rioting, we're not burning, we love our school, and this is probably as extreme as we ever get—what's wrong with what we're doing?" asked one South Dakota State University student.

The collegians estimated about 85 per cent of their number were from South Dakota State, 16 miles southwest of here, where the beer party at White was hatched. The rest of the visitors came from North Dakota, Minnesota and at least one car was seen from a Wisconsin school.

A few of the White invaders were on their second straight "weekend bust," having taken part the previous week in the march on Zap, N.D., in which several thousand dollars worth of damage was done.

Report Blaiberg Much Improved

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—Groote Schuur Hospital reported today that Dr. Philip Blaiberg, who has lived longer with a transplanted heart than any other person, "is much improved."

"He is alert after a good night and he is eating well," a hospital bulletin said.

Blaiberg entered the hospital Friday suffering from breathlessness and back pains. Doctors blamed his condition on exhaustion but were afraid that his body might be trying to reject the heart he received in an operation Jan. 2, 1968.

Wolfson Says Fortas Gave Legal Advice

NEW YORK (AP)—Louis E. Wolfson told FBI agents who visited him in prison that he was advised by former Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas that his indictment for stock manipulation was based on legal technicalities, Life magazine says.

Two weeks ago, Life's story of ties between Fortas and Wolfson started a wave of public and congressional criticism that led to Fortas' resignation from the court Thursday.

Fortas received $20,000 in 1966 from the Wolfson family foundation and returned it 11 months later, after Wolfson was indicted following an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Life reported Sunday that FBI agents visited Wolfson in Florida May 8 and were told that "he and Justice Fortas had discussed the nature of the SEC case against him, and Fortas had said that in his opinion the charges were based on legal technicalities."

An FBI spokesman in Washington said, "I have absolutely no comment."

The Justice Department, after Fortas quit, said Wolfson had been interviewed but refused to bare what he said. It has also been learned the correspondence with Fortas was subpoenaed from Wolfson.

Fortas, in quitting the court, denied he tried to influence legal action against Wolfson or that the agreement prejudiced his conduct on the bench.

Youngsters Send Apollo Greetings

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (AP)—Two young Oklahomans had high hopes Sunday when they tried to send greetings to Apollo 10 commander Thomas P. Stafford, an Oklahoma native.

The two youngsters, about 10 years old, were seen from a busy Interstate highway by a passing motorist. They were standing on a hillside about four miles east of Stafford's hometown of Weatherford, holding aloft a printed sign with two small U.S. flags attached to it. The sign said: "Hello Tom."

Lutherans Surprise Pastor Zehner With Birthday Party

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Trinity Lutheran Church Pastor and Mrs. Carl Zehner share the first piece of birthday cake at the luncheon held Sunday in the Parish House. This celebration came as a complete surprise to the Circleville pastor.

Sunday 10:45 a.m. services at the Trinity Lutheran Church were begun by the congregation singing, "Happy Birthday, dear Pastor".

This was part of the surprise that members of the church had planned to celebrate Pastor Carl Zehner's birthday.

The occasion also recognized Pastor Zehner's 15 years of service to Trinity congregation.

Following the unusual and surprising opening of the service, a guest pastor appeared. He was Dr. Norman A. Menter of Lutheran Theological Seminary in Columbus and a friend of Pastor Zehner. Dr. Menter's subject was "We're so glad you came to be our preacher". He expanded the subject to include, "and also our spiritual leader."

To help complete the birthday celebration members of the congregation contributed to a gift fund and a check for the amount was presented to the Zehners by Harry C. Kern, president of the congregation.

Following the service a buffet-style luncheon was served in the Parish House for the hon-

Violence Hits In Georgia

WAYCROSS, Ga. (AP) — A police patrolman said a young Negro was wounded by a shotgun blast during an exchange of gunfire between whites and Negroes involving about 15 to 20 teenagers.

The incident occurred Sunday night. The youth, John Baker, was in fair condition at a hospital.

Police said the cause of the outbreak was unknown. In a separate shooting, Willie Cooper, a Negro guard at a church, was wounded in the left leg by shotgun fire from a passing car. Willie Parker, 50, another Negro, was charged with firing the gun.

The Rev. C. E. Wells, pastor of the church, said it was guarded because of bomb threats following a boycott by Negroes of schools and white merchants in a civil rights dispute.

White, S.D. Survives

WHITE, S.D. (AP) — Standing in a curb-to-curb carpet of discarded beer cans and glass on White's main street, the youths made a college try to "drink White dry."

The project turned out to be too big for the town's 600 visitors although they worked hard at it. About 75 youths wanted to keep going after others went home but were told by highway patrolmen: "the party's over."

Most of the students left White Saturday night expressing satisfaction with themselves that they had kept their promise to do their own policing. Outside of "littering," the only observable damage was from three broken windows. Some of the collegians "chipped in" to pay for one of the broken panes.

"We're not rioting, we're not burning, we love our school, and this is probably as extreme as we ever get—what's wrong with what we're doing?" asked one South Dakota State University student.

The collegians estimated about 85 per cent of their number were from South Dakota State, 16 miles southwest of here, where the beer party at White was hatched. The rest of the visitors came from North Dakota, Minnesota and at least one car was seen from a Wisconsin school.

A few of the White invaders were on their second straight "weekend bust," having taken part the previous week in the march on Zap, N.D., in which several thousand dollars worth of damage was done.

Report Blaiberg Much Improved

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Groote Schuur Hospital reported today that Dr. Philip Blaiberg, who has lived longer with a transplanted heart than any other person, "is much improved."

"He is alert after a good night and he is eating well," a hospital bulletin said.

Blaiberg entered the hospital Friday suffering from breathlessness and back pains. Doctors blamed his condition on exhaustion but were afraid that his body might be trying to reject the heart he received in an operation Jan. 2, 1968.

Then—after some eight hours of separation—the two ships perform an intricate space ballet that allows them to rejoin. Once Stafford and Cernan crawl back into the mother ship again, a signal across a quarter million miles of space will fire the LEM engine for the last time—into voyage around the sun.

The three astronauts are scheduled to splash down in the Pacific a week from today—after eight days and five minutes on their voyage to the moon and back. They'll spend 2½ days of that time circling the moon.

Faye Stafford and Barbara Young and their children watched the launching at their homes near the Manned Space Center in Houston. Barbara Cernan flew to Cape Kennedy with her 6-year-old daughter Tracey to watch it in person, then flew home Sunday night.

"It's like having a baby," Mrs. Young said. "You know what to expect—but you never get used to it."

Wolfson Says Fortas Gave Legal Advice

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis E. Wolfson told FBI agents who visited him in prison that he was advised by former Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas that his indictment for stock manipulation was based on legal technicalities, Life magazine says.

Two weeks ago, Life's story of ties between Fortas and Wolfson started a wave of public and congressional criticism that led to Fortas' resignation from the court Thursday.

Fortas received $20,000 in 1966 from the Wolfson family foundation and returned it 11 months later, after Wolfson was indicted following an investigation by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Life reported Sunday that FBI agents visited Wolfson in Florida May 8 and were told that "he and Justice Fortas had discussed the nature of the SEC case against him, and Fortas had said that in his opinion the charges were based on legal technicalities."

An FBI spokesman in Washington said, "I have absolutely no comment." The Justice Department, after Fortas quit, said Wolfson had been interviewed but refused to bare what he said. It has also been learned the correspondence with Fortas was subpoenaed from Wolfson.

Fortas, in quitting the court, denied he tried to influence legal action against Wolfson or that the agreement prejudiced his conduct on the bench.
